Arrest in Dr. Dean Case Inquiry

The first step of the Federal government in connection with the inquiry into the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean of East Jaffrey, N. H., on the night of August 13, 1918, came today with the arrest of James J. Bosdan of No. 56 Bellevue street, Newton, on the charge of larceny of Federal records.

Bosdan, manager of a news agency at No. 15 School street, was arrested by Federal agents acting under the orders of George E. Kelleher, superintendent of the New England Bureau of the Department of Justice.

Bosdan was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hays, and held in $5,000 on a continuance to May 18.

He was released in bonds furnished by his wife. The specific charge against him was "larceny of govern-

Mary Dyer was hanged two hundred and sixty years ago today on Boston Common for being a Quaker.

Mary Dyer left several children, and her husband, William Dyer, made a strong plea to save her life for the sake of the children. But it was of no avail.

PREDICT FLOUR WILL BE $25

Boston Dealers Blame Speculators and Shutting Down of Mills for Increase

Boston wholesale flour dealers predict an advance in price of flour to $21 a barrel wholesale and $25 retail. They say this is the result of speculation, and that after the new wheat comes in July there will be a sudden drop to $15 and possibly to $13.

One prominent flour man, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, who blames the speculators for the increase, said: "Flour is at least $5 a barrel too high today, when it is considered there was a great deal of wheat carried over from the 1919 crop.

"It is very evident that the speculators control the wheat market and are responsible for jacking up prices. Heretofore speculation in grain has been controlled by the Grain Corporation, a war saving development. But this controlling factor goes out of existence on the last day of May. The speculators know that they will have to report to nobody for their May business, and consequently are cutting loose and buying and selling as they like.

"What proves conclusively that this is a speculators' market is the fact that mill after mill in the West is shutting down, finding they can make more money by selling their wheat now before it is ground into flour."

FAVORABLE HAYS BILL REPORT

The Boston American's fight for remedial rent legislation was crowned with its first decisive victory today when the Joint Committee on Judiciary of the General Court favorably reported the bill of Representative Martin Hays.

Representative Hays' bill, endorsed by thousands of rent payers throughout the Commonwealth, and backed by the Boston American Tenants' League, formed to aid in securing corrective legislation, was favorably reported after the committee met in executive session.

Before the bill was reported Mr. Hays changed Section 1 so that it would conform to legislation recently enacted in New York. The clause about a 10 per cent. net profit for realty owners is stricken out, and it is provided that an increase of over 25 per cent. in the rent for any year during the life of the bill shall be unjust, unreasonable, oppressive and extortionate.

There is a clause which permits realty owners to go to court to increase their revenue, and another which makes profiteering landlords subject to heavy fines and imprisonment.

The committee had previously reported favorably on a bill introduced by Senator Loring of Beverly, enabling municipalities to take property by eminent domain, and because of this report Mr. Hays eliminated a similar clause from his bill.

A bill making it compulsory for landlords to supply adequate heat for tenants in the Winter months was re-

ARMENIAN RESOLVE REPORTED IN SENATE

Washington, May 11.—A resolution extending the Senate's congratulations to the Armenian people upon the attainment of their independence, and requesting the President to send an American warship and a force of marines to protect American lives and property at the port of Batum and along the railroad line leading to Baku was favorably reported from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to the Senate this afternoon.

An Open Letter to the People
FROM
SIMON SWIG, Vice-President, Tremont Trust Company

Dear Friends:—

Whenever the people win what belongs to them someone rises to remark it isn't good for them. Such fellows try to take the joy out of life.

Under the leadership of the Tremont Trust Company, the people have won an increased share in the profits of the banks. Now the "Gus Glooms" in the Masachusetts Real Estate Exchange are intimating that "the payment of a higher rate of interest on deposits will naturally be reflected in higher rates on loans."

This should not be. If it happens, it will be a new form of profiteering.

The banks are making sufficient profits to pay higher rates of interest on savings deposits without increasing therefor the rates on loans.

In addition to the profits made by banks from interest on loans, are the profits received on investments and securities, and the profits made on hundreds of thousands of dollars on which no interest at all is paid to savings depositors because withdrawn between interest or dividend days.

Some banks are not making as many real estate loans as they should, not because there is no profit in loans on homes, but because there are less toil and trouble and more profit in making other kinds of loans, and investing in bonds and securities.

It takes work and time to look up the value of a home, to make out mortgage papers, and to follow up interest payments, tax payments, expiration of insurance policies, etc. These are involved in the taking of mortgages on homes. It takes little or no work to buy bonds and securities, or to lend money to influential business houses and manufacturers, and there is more profit in it.

So, some bankers, instead of making their full quota of real estate loans, are lending money where there is the most profit with the least work.

The Tremont Trust Company has been paying more interest to savings depositors than others; yet it makes as many as, if not more, loans on real estate than any other banking institution in Boston at a reasonable rate, without any bonus or commission charge.

Our views do not seem to meet with the approval of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, who now say they are looking to save the people, but objected to our saving the people money when we made a public announcement a short while ago reading:

"To Home-Builders and Home-Buyers. We have $500,000 available for investment in first-class mortgages at reasonable rates. We deal with principals only; no brokers nor bonus required."

This was not because we have anything against real estate men or brokers. Their business is legitimate, useful and, in many cases, necessary; but to do business with us no brokers are needed; and we wanted to save the people the bonus and brokerage commissions.

The Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange did not like this announcement. It told us so in a letter dated Feb. 6, 1920. However, we are adhering to our policy of meeting the people direct and loaning money to them for home purposes at reasonable rates without bonuses. We have not increased the rate of interest on our mortgage loans, even though we pay our savings depositors interest monthly, and permit withdrawals at any time practically without loss of interest, and have paid interest at the rate of 5%. Our savings department is constantly showing a good profit. Others should be able to do what we do.

The Real Estate Exchange did not.

Gloomites will live to see banks give depositors a fair share of their profits, without injury to the banks and without an increase in interest on mortgage loans, just as they have lived to see banks pay interest monthly without increasing the interest on loans and without injury to the banks.

Cheer up, croakers, no harm will come from giving the people now what belongs to them. Don't make them wait until the millennium.

Yours truly,

SIMON SWIG.

Four Reported in Auto Wreck Were at Altar

Carthage, N. Y., May 11.—Instead of being victims of an automobile accident, as was believed, four young persons, including Carlton Miller of Boston, who disappeared from this town, have become principals in a double marriage, according to a message received today.

According to this message, Miller, who is only seventeen years old, was married to Miss Hessie Giblin, aged nineteen, of Carthage, while her chum, Miss Marion Gould, became the bride of Reeves Comfort of Camden.

Young Miller, who is the son of Ernest Miller, prominent in the paper industry of Massachusetts, has been visiting relatives in Carthage. With the two girls and young Comfort, he announced the four intended to motor to Deferiet, where they expected to take dinner.

When the party failed to return it was feared that they had been killed or injured in an accident.

It is understood that Miss Giblin was the only member of the party old enough to obtain a marriage license without violating the rules.

DANIELS REVEALS WILSON'S CRITICISM OF GREAT BRITAIN

NAVAL METHODS OF BRITISH OPPOSED BY PRESIDENT

against the conduct of the war by the Navy Department.

For the first time the speech by the President to the officers of the Atlantic fleet at Yorktown, Va., in the Summer of 1917, was made public when Secretary Daniels read it to the committee today.

The President complained the British were adhering to tradition in conducting naval operations.

Speaking of the campaign against the submarines, the President declared "we are hunting hornets all over the farm and letting the nest alone. None of us knows how to go to the nest and smash it, and yet I despair of hunting for hornets all over the sea when I know where the nest is and I know the nest is breeding hornets as fast as I can find them."

WANTED NEST CRUSHED.

"Every time we have suggested anything to the British Admiralty the reply has come back which virtually amounts to this, that it had never been done in that way, and I felt like saying: 'Well, nothing was ever done so systematically as nothing is being done now.'"

Daniels continued to quote the President:

"Therefore I should like to see something unusual happen, something that never was done before. There is no other way to win. I am willing for my part, and I know you are willing, for I know the stuff you are made of—I am willing to sacrifice half the navy (meat Britain and we together have, to crush that nest, because if we crush it the war is won," the President's speech continued.

Daniels outlined the plans of the Navy Department made prior to the outbreak of the war. He referred to the announced policy of the President in February, 1916, when he declared the United States "ought in my judgment to be incomparably the most adequate navy in the world." He further referred to his own order of October 7, 1915, to the general board for the formation of a five-year building program of new construction of naval vessels.

Daniels quoted from the report of the general board to the effect that "this is the first time any administration has decided to present to Congress a continuing shipbuilding program."

The program was estimated to cost $500,000,000 at that time. Increased costs have raised that amount to $800,000,000, Daniels declared.

SIMS SUPPORTED BRITISH.

"All this shows the Navy Department was alive to its responsibilities before our entrance into the war," Daniels declared. Daniels said the President insisted upon the bottling up of the submarines, while the experts of the British navy refused to grant their approval. They were supported by Admiral Sims in their contention, Daniels said.

A delay of six months in the placing of the mine barrage in the North Sea to screen in the submarines was charged to Admiral Sims by Daniels.

"A further delay of two months was experienced because of the weather conditions existing when we finally obtained the approval of the British Admiralty to an amended plan," Daniels declared. "I do not want to reflect on the British in any way in citing these instances," Daniels quoted Admiral Straus as saying. "The completion of the mine barrage ended the submarine menace."

HOLD ROXBURY MAN IN ASSAULT ON OFFICER

John L. McCarron of Kingsbury street, Roxbury, was arraigned in the Roxbury Court today on a charge of assaulting Patrolman Morgan C. Murphy of the Jamaica Plain Station. His case was continued a week. Murphy, according to the evidence, was arresting McCarron for loitering, when a number of the latter's friends set upon him. McCarron broke away, and although the patrolman fired at him he made good his escape. He was arrested the next day.

GIRLS HEARD AT DEATH TRIAL

Deny Rivalry for Affections of Doctor Shot by Miss Zimmerman

merman, on trial for the alleged murder of her cousin, Dr. Henry Zimmerman.

Interest was keen in the testimony of the young women, as the defence will attempt to prove that one of them was the successful rival of Miss Zimmerman for the affections of her cousin, and caused him to break off his engagement to marry her.

Both girls denied even under the most searching cross-examination that they had been anything more than friends to the slain physician.

The jury in the case today viewed the scene of the shooting on Ferry street. The defendant waived her right to be present, and was represented by counsel.

Miss Evelyn Feldman testified that she and her sister Sadie had been automobiling with Dr. Zimmerman the day he was shot last August.

Arriving in Ferry street she got out and went into a store to make a purchase. As she came out she noticed the physician talking with Miss Zimmerman in the road, just back of the machine.

Just as she was stepping into the car she saw the defendant draw a revolver from the folds of her dress and fire several times, then throw the gun at the victim and run down the street. Miss Zimmerman was captured by bystanders a few yards from the scene of the shooting.

Miss Sadie Feldman testified in substance to the same facts, except that she said she remained in automobile and did not see the actual shooting. She said that while her sister was in the store a woman appeared at the machine, apparently much excited, and asked the physician to get out, which he did.

Miss Feldman defied that the auto trip was the prelude to an engagement party at which the coming marriage of either herself or her sister to Dr. Zimmerman was to have been announced.

The courtroom was crowded, there being a particularly large delegation of women present.

REPORT ESCAPE OF CARRANZA

"First Chief" Making Last Desperate Stand With 4,000 Men, It Is Said

Washington, May 11.—President Wilson called his Cabinet into session today as a result of the Mexican situation. Recognition of a defacto government in Mexico was one of the questions discussed.

El Paso, Tex., May 11.—The fate of President Carranza was in doubt today.

Rebel headquarters here claim they have received reports confirming earlier news stating he had been captured at Aptizan in Puebla, but advices here states that the fallen Mexican executive managed to break through the rebel lines and is making a last desperate stand at a point twenty miles from Vera Cruz, with revolutionary forces under General Trevino and Benjamin Hill preparing to attack the 4,000 loyal troops who are defending him.

Other reports sent in by the rebel agents here today declare that General Candido Aguilar, a son-in-law of Carranza, and General Manuel Diegues, Carranza's chief military commander, have been slain in battle and that General Francisco Murguia, Carranza's minister of war, political prisoners at Santiago prison, and Jean Barragan, chief of Carranza's "Dunser" bodyguard, have been executed on the order of the rebels, commander at Mexico City.

The rebel account of Carranza's capture state that it occurred at Aguasco Friday, while he was fleeing to Vera Cruz together with Luis Cabrera, Minister of the Treasury; Manuel Borlanga, Minister of the Interior; Ignacio Bonillis, former ambassador to the United States, and several other officials of the Federal government. All were reported captured with him.

The party, it was reported, was ordered back to Mexico City by General Obregon. It is stated by officials of the rebel government that Adolfo de la Huerta, Governor of Sonora, where the revolution started, will be named provisional President in a few days.

Believe Americans in Mexico Are Safe

Washington, May 11.—Establishment of a provisional government by the Mexican rebels is expected with-in a few days, according to the agency of the revolution here.

Governor De La Huerta of Sonora is looked upon here as the most likely candidate for the office of provisional president.

The administration is proceeding with the utmost caution and with the dispatch of the Oklahoma to Key West today and the presence of several destroyers along both coasts of Mexico it is believed here that the safety of Americans in Mexico is assured.

Americans at Tampico Safe, Wires Capt. Long

Washington, May 11.—The Navy Department today received the following message from Captain R. A. Long on board the destroyer Putnam, at Tampico, Mexico:

U. S. ACTION IN DEAN CASE

Boston Man Charged With Larceny of U. S. Secret Service Records

ment papers valued at $100."

According to Superintendent Kelleher, Bosdan was never connected with the Department of Justice in any way. It was further stated that on February 4 last Bosdan delivered an address before the Harvard Liberal Club on "How Newspaper Lies Are Created."

Bosdan's arrest produces sensational developments in the international aspects of the Dean murder. It also shows determination of the local Department of Justice to clean house preparatory to the coming visit of a Congressional committee of investigation.

The arrest of Bosdan followed an affidavit which alleged that he had sought to sell confidential records of the Department of Justice having to do with the Dean case.

The warrant served on Bosdan is said to allege that he received records or copies of records considered secret government property.

How Bosdan, who claims to be a journalist, came into possession of secret government records is said to be the aim of the Department of Justice to discover.

Bosdan, for some months, has been offering in various newspaper offices what he claimed were "inside records" of the Dean case. He also claimed to have government records of the cause for the arrest and imprisonment of Dr. Karl Muck, former leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

PALMER LIFTED BAN.

Following Bosdan's attempt to sell records of the Muck case, a series of articles appeared in a Boston newspaper (not the American). After the first installment the United States District Attorney's office secured an injunction restraining further publication. This injunction was later removed by Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, to whom the matter was referred by the newspaper involved.

Since that time Bosdan is said to have become bolder in his offer to sell government records. His association with a former agent of the Department of Justice became more marked. This former agent had been cautioned not to stand sponsor for any material which Bosdan might offer for sale.

Bosdan's attempt to sell what he claimed were secret government records in the Dean case led to the swearing out of the warrant for his arrest.

RECORDS SEIZED.

These records are said to have been seized at Bosdan's home by Federal Agents Wood and Bradley, who were armed with a search warrant.

Bosdan and his wife, accompanied by a woman relative, were hurried to the Federal Building in a closed automobile, arriving there shortly after midnight.

While Agents Wood and Bradley were at Bosdan's home, Superintendent Kelleher of the New England division of the Department of Justice and Agent Tighe were searching his news agency at No. 15 School street. Bosdan was astonished when the Federal men made known their errand.

The Federal officials are trying to find out how these confidential documents came into the possession of Bosdan who claims to have been a secret service agent himself at one time for this and other countries and to have acted in a secret capacity for Great Britain during the War. Bosdan further claimed, it is alleged, that he held voluminous secret reports relative to the Dean murder, compiled by the intelligence departments of France, Germany and Great Britain.

A former member of the Department of Justice was reported at the time to have been cautioned not to be sponsor for any articles based on the war research of the Department of Justice.

WAS ONCE AN I. W. W.

In June, 1918, Bosdan wrote a newspaper series entitled "Hunting the Hun Spy in America" As a secret service agent and publicist Bosdan has had a somewhat adventurous career. He was prominently identified with the I. W. W. for a time. Years ago he left Turkey, his native land, with a price on his head for he was one of the founders of the Young Turks Society, which came into disrepute for preventing itself to be corrupted by German financiers.

He took refuge in Switzerland. While there he acted as chairman of the Refuge Committee and claimed to have detected and exposed German intrigue.

The arrest of Bosdan is the first public move made by the Federal government which affects the Dean murder case and it promises to lead to an early and complete probing of that tragedy by both the State of New Hampshire and the United States government.

POLICE WAR ON AUTO MURDERS

Commissioner Curtis Orders the Arrest of All Reckless Motorists

of these children was nothing short of murder. Not all the drivers have been prosecuted for their offence. In some districts the courts ruled against the granting of warrants for the drivers of the cars.

Police Commissioner Curtis in his orders to the different stations made it clear that the strictest possible measures must be taken to prevent infractions of the speed laws. Furthermore, he is insistent that motorists who have the slightest tendency to recklessness shall be prosecuted.

Commissioner Curtis rules that not only shall the chauffeur be arrested, but in addition, the owner, if he be in the car at the time the offence is committed. Thus he believes that a blow will be struck at the root of the evil.

During the month of April it was found that nineteen drivers of automobiles had been arrested for drunkenness. Commissioner Curtis orders that drivers of machines with any sign of intoxicants upon them shall be prosecuted.

The commissioner states that speeding seem most numerous in the vicinity of Cottage Farm bridge on Commonwealth avenue, Arlington, Newbury, Marlboro and Beacon streets.

Reported earnings for the Standard Oil Company of New York during 1919 were $57.52 on its capital stock, compared to $23.15 during 1918. The Standard Oil of New Jersey last year earned on its common stock $76.43 as against $58.89 in 1918.

FINED $40 FOR REFUSING TO AID POLICE OFFICER

'WAR WON DESPITE FLAWS'

Col. Abernethy Welcomes Inquiry to Reveal Faults in Army Training

The success of the United States Army in the World War, described as "beyond our fondest hopes and brightest dreams," was largely due to West Pointers, according to Colonel R. S. Abernethy of the Northeastern Department, the latest army officer to reply to the criticism of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president-emeritus of Harvard.

In a statement issued today, Colonel Abernethy renewed the controversy started by Dr. Eliot's charges that graduates of the Military Academy were inefficient and failures in the war.

Colonel Abernethy declared that the army had no monopoly on "passing the buck," which was one of Dr. Eliot's charges, but admitted that a "moderate discussion" of West Pointers' faults, together with those of the academy, should be welcomed by all officers.

The statement follows:

WAR AND WARS.

"I do not believe Dr. Eliot's letter to General Hackam has done anything like the meaning, or an amplification of the meaning the ordinary newspaper reader would get from the published statement attributed to the doctor, and not corrected when brought to his notice. In the first place, it is now obvious that Dr. Eliot meant, the inefficiency and failure of West Point graduates in the World War and not in war in general. The word war is broad, not specific. It seems inaccurate to say that the published statements are 'substantially correct.'

"Whether the Military Academy is an example of just what an educational institution should not be is a question for educators. It seems sufficient to state here that West Point does not pretend or attempt to be the kind of an educational institution Dr. Eliot was discussing, but rather a specialized training school for developing American young men into army subalterns. General education is secondary to the main purpose. 'In nine democratic country West Point must take young men of all classes, and not of that class alone which is financially and otherwise able to prepare for college.' But surely Dr. Eliot would not dispute an assertion that Harvard is just what a military academy should not be.

"In his letter Dr. Eliot says the red tape methods and buck-passing habits of American Regular Army officers were very mischievous all through the actual fighting and remain a serious impediment to the efficiency of the War Department to this day.' To this I agree. It has always been true of all armies. And I am sure there are other and not less serious faults peculiar to the regular officer.

AVERAGE AMERICANS.

"In fact, American Regular Army officers, including the 40 per cent graduated of the Military Academy, are average Americans with average faults and average virtues. I confidently assert that the army has no monopoly on 'passing the buck.' A moderate discussion of their faults, and of those of the academy should be welcomed by all officers. I for one should like to hear from those who favor some kind of military preparedness.

"To sum up, the fact in broad outline are these:

"(a) The published statement which Dr. Eliot fails to correct means that as a class the graduates of West Point (not a few only, not all without exception) were inefficient and failed in the world war.

"The United States in the World War was successful beyond our fondest hopes and brightest dreams. There was no disaster, no serious reverse.

"The United States army in the war was raised, trained, equipped and put in the field in less time and better shape than any other great army from an untrained citizenry in history.

"In the main the army was well fed, well trained, well equipped and well led.

"The army was put over sea long ahead of the expected time and in order to meet an emergency that threatened disaster to the allied cause, and many other circumstances added to the difficulty and created some confusion, but there was no breakdown.

"Almost every portion of first importance in connection with the organization, equipment, training, supply, transportation and leadership of the American force was filled by a regular army officer—as it happened, nearly all were graduates of West Point.

"Is this true? If so, are Dr. Eliot's statements fair?"

Governor Now Heads Drive of 'Sallies'

Lieutenant Stella Young, pinning upon Governor Coolidge, his official badge as Salvation Army collector. The other man in the group is State Treasurer Charles Burrill, who appeals for funds for the army.

Governor Coolidge officially enrolled as a "daily Booster" today.

He was given the solicitor's badge by Lieutenant Stella Young, Wrought out girl," was married eighteen months in the trenches with the A. E. F.

Former State Treasurer Charles S. Burrill informed the Governor that the Salvation Army drive was doomed to failure unless the people of New England were aroused at once. Burrill is chairman of the Boston committee. He stated that Boston's quota of $170,000, due May 20, only touched $16,000 mark of its spotlight day. The New England quota of $1,250,000 shows no indication of being attained unless the people wake up, Burrill declared, adding:

"They were on the firing line with the boys in France and they are on the firing line here. They didn't forget the boys, let's not forget them."

Governor Coolidge is now official head of the New England drive.

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS DEAD

Influenza Causes Death of Famous Author in New York

By International News Service.

New York, May 11.—William Dean Howells, famous author and editor, died early today at his apartment in the Hotel St. Hubert. He was eighty-three years old. Mr. Howells had recently returned here from Savannah, Ga., where he spent the Winter. His death was hastened by weakness following an attack of influenza.

William Dean Howells, "the dean of American letters," many of whose novels were said to be "as full of Boston as Dickens is of London," was born at Martin's Ferry, O., March 1, eighty-three years ago. His father was a country editor, and the boy's first job was on the former's paper. He received his education largely by working on various small-town papers as compositor, correspondent and editor. In later life he received the honorary degrees of A. M. from Harvard and Yale; Litt. D. from Yale, Oxford and Columbia, and LL. D. from Adelbert College

SERVED AS U. S. CONSUL.

His wife was Elinor G. Mead of Brattleboro, Vt., whom he married in Paris in 1862. They had one daughter, Mildred. He was United States consul to Venice during the Civil War, obtaining there the material from which his work, "Venetian Life," was afterward written.

He was a contributor to many magazines, including editorial positions; had been for a time the editor of the Cosmopolitan, and at the time of his death was editor of "The Editor's Easy Chair" of Harper's.

At the time of his seventy-fifth birthday it was stated that he had more books than years to his credit, and all of extraordinary quality.

LIVED IN BOSTON FOR TIME.

On that anniversary a dinner was given the novelist by Colonel George Harvey in New York, at which President Taft attended, making a special trip from Washington for the occasion. Mr. Howells' eightieth birthday the National Arts Club of New York held a celebration in his honor and was attended by 1,500 persons, although Mr. Howells was at the time in the South.

Mr. Howells spent a large part of his life in Boston and Cambridge, having been connected with the Atlantic monthly square and on Beacon street. At least a dozen of his novels were based on Boston life and folk. Although his work was chiefly fiction, warning for him the publication of "an American Trollope," he wrote many essays, plays, poems and some histories.

In recent years Mr. Howells lived in New York city at No. 130 West 57th street. He maintained a beautiful Summer home at Kittery Point, Me., where he did much of his work.

1,000 STRIKE IN PAPER MILLS

Independent Plants Are Included in Walkout at Holyoke

Holyoke, May 11.—The independent paper mills, including all those not affiliated with the American Writing Paper Company, were included in the walkout of employes who are members of the Unity of Workers today.

A strike in all of the divisions of the American Writing Paper Company was declared and the Crocker McElwain, one of the largest independent mills, was included. The men are demanding a wage increase of fourteen cents per hour, bringing their wage schedule up to seventy cents per hour.

They allege that their demands were entirely ignored and that they are determined never again to enter the mills unless their increase is forthcoming. The number of men called on today brings the total number of strikers up to nearly one thousand, or enough to seriously hamper production in all paper mills.

Meanwhile conferences between representatives of the Eagle Lodge of Papermakers and the manufacturers were resumed today to effect the Buffalo wage schedule, calling for twenty-five per cent. increase for union papermakers.

It was stated at the headquarters of Eagle Lodge that the union men would keep the mills open despite the strike by the Unity of Workers.

Adam Wilkinson, commissioner of the American Writing Paper Company, declares that the company will not treat with the men while they are on strike. He says that "the employes are either knaves or fools."

Lawrence Engineers End Their Strike

Lawrence, May 11.—Striking engineers of the American Woolen Company reported on their jobs this morning. Why the strike was ended is a mystery. Mill men themselves profess to know of no reason why the men took this sudden action.

It was admitted by individual members of the engineers' local that the men in the American Woolen Mills had returned on the same conditions under which they left. They will not receive any increase in pay and will work the same hours as before, it was stated.

The American Woolen Company has not decided to grant its employes a 15 per cent. increase in wages, according to a statement today by General Manager Frank H. Carpenter. When told that a report was being circulated in Lawrence that the company has decided to increase wages 15 per cent. and that as a result striking engineers had returned to work, Mr. Carpenter said: "That's the first I've heard of it, and I think I am in a position to know. There's no truth in the report."

Fall River, May 11.—During a conference between the executive committee of the Manufacturers' Association and the full Textile Council of the National Amalgamation of Textile Workers, which represents practically all the operatives in the city, the mill men made an offer of fifteen per cent. as an increase in wages.

James Tansey, president of the Textile Council, declared that this offer would be submitted to the textile unions during general meetings to be held Wednesday night.

POLICE FAIL TO FIND INSANE CONVICTS

Manchester, N. H., May 11.—Residents of this and nearby communities were terrified today as a result of the failure of the police to capture the two insane convicts who escaped from the New Hampshire State Hospital. The police theory is that the men, Martin Destelgier and William F. Tiffany, are making their way to a seaport, possibly Boston. Destelgier is a native of Belgium and when arrested for killing his wife in the North Beach street woods, this city, was planning to reach a port where he might embark for his former home.

Explorers Win 14-Day Race Against Death

Montreal, May 11.—An epic story of a fourteen-day race through the wilds of northern Quebec with a man's life as the stake, was told here by members of the party of H. F. Blake, explorer of the Ungava.

Traveling by dogsleds and canoes, the party reached the frontier settlement of Chicoutimi just in time to get medical attention for Dr. Corbett, one of the explorers, who was at the point of death from a gunshot wound, accidentally inflicted.

For four days the explorers were without food. Several of them were suffering acutely from exposure and are under medical care.

Blake left Quebec in March to make explorations in Ungava in behalf of a London mining syndicate. On April 19 he was eighteen miles from camp when two of his men arrived with word that Dr. Corbett had accidentally shot himself.

Blake took six of his men and Cuthbertson of the mounted police and started for civilization with the wounded man. Good progress was made until the party reached the River Ashuapmonchoan. The ice had broken up. The party embarked in small canoes with Montagnais Indian guides and reached the great falls 45 miles from the mouth after many perilous escapes. One of the canoes upset, all the provisions being lost.

The wounded man was carried on a stretcher through the trackless forests for two day. All were without food. Some of the men collapsed eleven miles from the nearest house, and Blake and two hardy assistants pushed on alone to aid. Dr. Corbett, whose life was the prize in the thrilling dash from the Ungava, will recover.

VAHEY ATTACKS "L" FIGURES

Attorney for Union Objects to Size of Company's Depreciation Account

The figures of General Auditor John H. Moran of the Elevated were attacked by James H. Vahey, counsel for the Carmen's Union, today before the Arbitration Board at the State House. Attorney Vahey questioned the figure of $167,000 for depreciation as quoted by Moran.

"Is not this figure much greater than the figure for depreciation given by the old management of the road?" queried the attorney.

Auditor Moran admitted that this was the fact.

"And will not the stockholders benefit by the large figure for depreciation when the road is turned back to private ownership as well as the public," queried the attorney.

"The stockholders are guaranteed 5 per cent. on their investment by the State," returned the auditor.

Mr. Vahey then shifted his cross-examination to a comparison between Elevated and the Cleveland Street Railway Company. "The Cleveland company has raised the pay of its men 40 to 72 cents an hour," he said, "yet that road charges five cents per passenger, or less."

"We have heard a great deal of the Cleveland company," answered Auditor Moran, "and I have heard that their transportation is not as good as ours. Further, their's is surface traffic, while the Boston road is handicapped by the tunnel system."

The young wife, who married Chapman four years ago in England, says that her husband, whom she met while he was in the British army, has lost his love for her and has requested her to permit him to obtain a divorce.

She came to this country thirteen months ago, and the couple lived at the home of his parents until four months ago when they went house-keeping. Six weeks ago she went to work, leaving the baby with his parents.

Attempts to gain possession of her child have been fruitless, she says. Accompanied by two Lynn policemen she went to the home of her mother-in-law and requested possession of the child, but Mrs. Chapman the latter is alleged to have refused to admit the mother and the officers.

WIDOW ABSENT AT GRIFFIN FUNERAL

Burial services were held for George Francis Griffin, who died in Miami, Fla., last Monday, leaving a fortune estimated at $10,000,000 to his widow, who married again the next day, at the Forest Hills Cemetery Chapel. The body was cremated and the ashes placed in the chapel.

His widow, who became the bride of Lieutenant-Commander Paul Bastado, was represented at the funeral by her mother and sister.

Sure Way To Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

REPORTS HAYS RENT BILL

Judiciary Committee Acts Favorably on Measure Backed by Tenants' League.

ported, as was also the continuance of the thirty day ejectment bill, which, unless continued, would expire this season.

MUST HEAD APARTMENTS.

Representative Hays filed the favorable report on his bill today, and it goes to the House of Representatives for action tomorrow.

The favorable action of the Joint Committee on Judiciary on the bill marks the beginning of a successful end to the campaign inaugurated over two months ago by the Boston American. When the rent situation began to get acute in Massachusetts, the Boston American was the first to go to the fore, and take up arms against the rent profiteers.

Following an investigation of the methods being used in other States to stop rent profiteering and remedy the housing situation, the Boston American Tenants' League was formed, a State-wide organization of free and voluntary membership, to stand behind Representative Hays in his efforts to have enacted into law a drastic and comprehensive bill to correct the housing evils.

THOUSANDS JOINED LEAGUE.

Thousands of rent payers of the Commonwealth joined the league and indorsed the Hays bill, and at meetings held in various place throughout the State crowds enthusiastically indorsed the aims of Mr. Hays and the league to get remedial measures.

Prominent organizations throughout the State endorsed the purposes of the league, and both just landlords and fair tenants acclaimed its provisions.

During the campaign many suggestions were made by organizations and individuals for the betterment of the bill. Most of these centred around the clause giving landlords a net profit of 10 per cent. Some thought this too high; some thought it too low; others thought it unconstitutional.

After an exhaustive study of the problem, Mr. Hays came to the conclusion that the bill as a whole would be bettered if this clause were changed to agree with the law which is successfully in operation in New York, which instead of trying to fix a profit, limits landlords to a 25 per cent. increase.

In this form the bill proved acceptable to the majority of members of the Judiciary Committee, which has the measure under discussion, and a favorable report was filed upon it.

Recommend Loan of Funds to Curb Rent Profiteers

Appropriation of several millions of dollars to be employed in relieving the acute housing situation in Boston, enactment of immediate legislation to curb rent profiteering, and the appointment of a joint legislative committee to study the present rent and housing conditions throughout the Commonwealth, were among recommendations made today by the Boston Committee on Rent and Housing, meeting at No. 1 Beacon street.

The committee met especially to formulate plans for future relief in the housing problem, anticipating the elimination of the war emergency for houses and apartments in the city in September and October. Higher rents and expired leases will be a big problem in the Fall, and with this in mind the committee endeavored to make feasible recommendations. It was brought out that there are few vacant tenements and few of those vacant are habitable, but the committee feels that numerous houses which have been allowed to fall into disrepair and dilapidation by the indifference of landlords should be repaired and made fit to live in.

$40 TO $50 A MONTH.

"The immediate need is for the construction of houses to let at $40 to $50 a month," said the committee's report. "The second need is for cheaper houses for wage earners and which will remain serviceable when lower wages will drive many from higher priced apartments."

One plan for building suggested is to advance as much as 90 per cent. of the full value of land and building at low interest, allowing the tenant twelve years to purchase. Another way suggested is to advance most of the loan as a second mortgage, allowing a savings bank to take the first mortgage. One Chicago plan of house purchase by monthly installments carries bonus insurance.

"There is need of immediate legislation to curb rent profiteering," says the committee. "Time has been insufficient for a study of the difficult legal questions involved. We believe all rental property is affected with a public interest, and rents should be fair. The commission might have the right of requiring sixty days' notice to vacate instead of thirty days. In ejectment cases the court should have the right to grant the tenant a maximum stay of six months."

HEARS TENANTS' PROTESTS.

Herbert E. Ellis of the committee gave a hearing to complaining tenants and succeeded in persuading two landlords, Louis Segal, No. 160 West Sixth street, South Boston, and Jacob Goldman, No. 857 Dorchester avenue, South Boston, to allow their rentals to remain as at present and forego a boost which had been announced by them to their tenants.

Mrs. Samuel Oppenheim, Jr., who occupies premises at No. 26 Balfour street, Roxbury, owned jointly by Segal and Goldman, made complaint of three rent increases.

Louis Novak, No. 32 Westminster road, Roxbury, and Arthur Prague, No. 8 Westminster road, appeared against Bernard Matthews, who has offices at No. 656 State street. They told of five rent boosts, from $21 to $44. They allege that Matthews failed to provide sufficient heat. Mr. Ellis inquired of Matthews whether he intended to purchase enough coal during the coming Winter. "How high is coal going to be?" demanded Matthews. "If it is going to be higher this Winter I might as well go out of business. Anyhow, I have to make some improvements and must increase the rent again."

Alfred Morrison, No. 49 Deevey street, Dorchester, declared that his landlord, F. H. Sargent of Pittsfield, N. H., had made no repairs in years, but had jumped the rent five times. The committee, after investigation,

Halts Eviction of 650 New York Tenants

New York, May 11.—The request of landlords for eviction warrants in 650 cases were refused by Justice Scanlon in the Second District Municipal Court, and the tenants were granted a year's stay on the basis of their April rent.

In each case the tenants had refused to pay alleged increases.

reported the latest increase justified by conditions. Sargent's tenants testified that he visited them, and asked what improvements needed to be made. They pointed out many, they said, which he agreed to make. The next word they had from him was an announcement of higher rent.

Rent Raised $7.50; Writ of Ejectment Asked

In the Civil Session Roxbury Court today, before Judge Ahern, Hyman Bell applied for a writ to put Jacob Finklestone ejected from the flat occupied by the latter at No. 11 Westminster road, Roxbury.

Through ignorance of the procedure Finklestone, though he appeared in person in court, had not filed a legal appearance. To protect the man Judge Ahern allowed him to file this appearance today.

Finklestone said he had lived in the apartment more than a year, and first paid $30 per month rent, and afterward $37. He had always paid in advance and by check, he said.

He declared he had no knowledge of Bell, who seeks to eject by writ, and that he always believed that Isaac Bacharach of No. 11 Walnut Park was his landlord. He showed where he had sent checks for the rent for April and May, but they had been returned to him and he had been told that the rent had been increased to $45 a month. The case was continued.

SENATOR WALSH TESTS MURPHY

Doubt as to Convict's Sanity Removed by Visit to Penitentiary

The last interview with Jesse Murphy, who confessed to the crimes for which George and Charles Rollins have been convicted, was the most important of the four meetings between the convict and the representatives of the young men.

A notary public, Senator David J. Walsh, Judge Thomas H. Connelly and the prison chaplain, Father Cullen, and Dr. W. M. Lynch were present. The interview was held in Murphy's cell in the Eastern State Penitentiary at Philadelphia.

Everybody who had seen Murphy believed that he was far from insane. It was to satisfy all doubts on this point that Senator Walsh made the trip to Philadelphia. Murphy asked the Senator by his wonderful memory for names, dates and places. He recalled names of men who had campaigned with the Senator in various political contests, none of whom the Senator had all but forgotten himself. He recalled small incidents.

To test him the Senator asked Murphy to write out something. Without an instant's hesitation the convict wrote out a summary of his own confession.

Murphy said to the Senator:

"Senator Walsh, I have confessed this crime to Father O'Dea as my confessor. He is bound by the bonds of his office to reveal nothing of what I have told him. I tell Father O'Dea here in front of you now that I release him from every bond of his office as far as my confession to him is concerned. I am not only willing that he should tell all that I have confessed to him, I am eager that he should do so, if by that I can more surely set those two boys in prison in Boston."

Senator Walsh declared here and in Washington that nothing of a more solemn nature had come to him during his long career in public life.

Doubts were settled after Murphy's appearance and actions at this interview, and the application for new trials for the Rollins boys was filed the following day.

A thirty days' suspended sentence was imposed on the mother with the provision that she treat the child kindly. The child's father was brought into court and also received a severe lecture.

BONUS WARNING BY LOGAN

Legion Posts of State Urged to Plead With Congressmen for Favorable Action

Stirred to action by the successful progress that war profiteers, capitalistic interests and other elements are making to kill the war bonus measure now in Congress, Colonel Edward L. Logan, State commander of the American Legion, warns the heads of the 258 posts in the Bay State of the existing danger and advises immediate action on the part of each post.

Logan suggests that telegrams be sent to the various Congressmen requesting immediate and favorable action on the bonus measure. Logan's telegram to the post commanders in this State follows:

"Congress hesitates upon legion's fourfold optional bonus legislation. Suggest that you and your officers wire your Representatives asking for immediate and favorable action and that resolutions of your post be forwarded also. A powerful propaganda against the bill is now at work. Ask for action now, not after election day."

Legion officials score Congressman Treadway for his opposition to the bonus bill.

Washington, May 11.—Abandonment of the proposed 1 per cent. sales tax as a means of raising money for soldier bonuses has been definitely decided upon by Republican leaders of the House Ways and Means Committee.

House leaders are bending every effort to whip some compromise bonus into shape so there can be action before the end of the week.

The sales tax was the principal cause of dissension. It is also planned to cut the total amount necessary for bonus funds from $1,750,000,000 to slightly more than $1,000,000,000.

North End Post No. 82, and James Q. Carey Post No. 77 of Ashland, have notified Massachusetts Congressmen that they are watching bonus legislation and expect favorable action before adjournment.

KILL PLAN FOR NEW POLICE STATION NO. 2

The City Council has killed the order introduced by Mayor Peters, providing for the purchase of a site on Milk street for a new house for police station 2 and the sale of a site on Arch street. Council members, in impassioned speeches, sought to place the blame on Mayor Peters for the delay in the erection of the new building.

"Merrily We Roll Along—

o'er the deep blue sea"

SO goes the old college song. And the same chorus is applicable to the land.

See if it isn't.

More than seven million automobiles are rolling around this country, causing a great deal of outlay and at the same time putting hustle into industry and producing much pleasure and profit.

Each car is equivalent to a private railroad, the owner's carriage laying its own track as it bowls along. You don't even have to stick to the roads—you can ride in the lots, and up the wooded lanes.

The automobile is a builder of highways, a promoter of human health, an uncoverer of scenery, a winner of wars and an aid to matrimony. It gets the doctor there on time and carries the "message to Garcia."

One person out of every 20 in these United States owns a car and the other 19 want to. Nebraska and Iowa are little States, but each there they have one motor car for every six and one-half persons. Never has there been such a demand for cars—all over the world—even in Iceland!

Successful makers of standard cars are standing on their heads to fill orders and tipped over from sheer exhaustion, with thousands of orders unfilled.

Stockholders in the right car companies are gathering a harvest of dividends never before known in the motor car industry.

And now, Mr. Man and Mrs. Woman who are reading this column, here is where you come in:

You are invited to send your name and address in order that you may receive (by mail) some vital and interesting news that will prove greatly to your financial advantage. Also a certain lively Picture Book relating to this business—all without cost or obligation on your part.

You will find out how (and why!) the manufacturers of one of the three best cars built in America have decided to let a few alert and ambitious men and women in each State participate in the profits of their expanding business.

Actual orders for cars approximating nine million dollars retail value, are now on the Company's books.

The entire factory production is sold up to the end of the 1921 fiscal year.

This is one of the fine cars (remember that!) selling at over $5,000 through Sales Agencies established in 22 cities.

The most prominent people in Boston own this famous car and ride in it—right past your door.

And—get this! — a plan has been arranged by which you can have a share in the ownership of this successful motor car Company easily and comfortably, and your ownership will mean full participation in all the profits of the business—now and in the future—if you act promptly enough.

Maybe you have never answered a financial advertisement before in your life—and maybe you have. But at any rate, answer THIS one. It's only a little thing to do—just a postcard—and the chances are you will be mighty glad you did it.

Strike One!

This is the first of three Announcements to be made in the Boston newspapers. The second will appear in an early issue. The third Announcement will be the last. If you answer this first one TODAY you will be just that much ahead of the game.

HEARST INJUNCTION ON SHIP SALE MADE PERMANENT

Washington, May 11.—The long legal battle waged by William Randolph Hearst in the interests of the public for the retention by the government of the great fleet of former German passenger liners, ended when Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court handed down a permanent injunction against the sale of the vessels by the Shipping Board.

The name of Admiral William S. Benson, the present chairman of the board is substituted as the principal defendant in place of John Barton Payne, the former chairman, whose attempts to auction off the fleet brought about Mr. Hearst's suit.

"The perpetual injunction comes as the direct result of the failure of the Shipping Board to file an answer to the bill of complaint after the motion by admiralty counsel to dismiss the bill had been overruled.

OVERRULED BY COURT.

The principal contentions of counsel for the Shipping Board were that Mr. Hearst, as a taxpayer, did not have the legal right to bring the suit, and that the suit was an action against the government. On both these points, the court overruled the Shipping Board, and held that when agents of the Government attempt to overstep their legal authority, an action can be brought against them. The case, according to the views of legal experts, establishes a precedent in suits against a Government body.

Former Governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, and General Samuel T. Ansell, principal counsel for Mr. Hearst, contended throughout the suit that the former German vessels were war prizes, seized in the harbors of the United States at the outbreak of hostilities and that no authorization by Congress permitted their sale. At two attempts on the part of the Shipping Board to auction off the ships, the highest offer received was that of $23,000,000.

SENATE MOVE TARDY.

In view of the fact that the Leviathan, the largest of the fleet of twenty-nine vessels, was valued at $12,000,000, the highest bid received was generally considered by shipping men to be "ridiculous." Shortly after Mr. Hearst, in the initial brush with Shipping Board counsel, secured a temporary order holding up the sale by Chairman Payne, the Senate passed a resolution blocking the sacrifice of the ships.

Various attempts were subsequently made by admiralty attorneys to have the case dismissed on a technicality, but without success. Accordingly, the decree was today made permanent, and is as follows:

"William Randolph Hearst,
John Barton Payne, et al.

"This case came on to be heard at this term upon the bill of complaint herein and the motion to dismiss the same having been overruled, and the motion to dissolve the restraining orders herein having been denied, and the defendants William S. Benson, Thomas A. Scott, John A. Donald and Raymond B. Stevens, commissioners composing the United States Shipping Board, and the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, a corporation, and each of them, by their counsel here now in open court elect not to answer the bill of complaint but to stand upon their said motion to dismiss the same; it is, therefore, this 10th day of May, A. D. 1920,

ONLY SUWANNE SOLD.

"Adjudge, ordered and decreed, That the said defendants and each of them and the successors in office of the said individual defendants, be, and they are hereby perpetually enjoined from making sale of the vessels and ships set forth, mentioned and described in the said bill of complaint, as in the same prayed, except the ship Suwanne.

"By the court, Thomas Jennings Bailey, justice."

The steamer Suwanne, of which exception is made, had been contracted for by purchasers before the proceedings were brought in court.

BAY STATE THANKED FOR ZIONIST SUPPORT

New York, May 11.—The Zionists of America, in convention here, unanimously adopted resolutions thanking the people of Massachusetts for their support of the Jewish right to a national home in Palestine. The resolutions followed the bringing of greetings from Massachusetts by Representative Ellin D. Stone of Boston. Mr. Stone, in recounting what his state had done for the Zionists, referred to Justice Brandeis as the great leader of the race. The allusion was cheered for several minutes.

ALLEGED THIEF WORE WIG AND GIRL'S CLOTHES

Chicago, May 11.—The police were startled after arresting a "girl," who was found acting suspiciously and captured after a long chase, that the prisoner was a man, wearing a blond wig, corsets, silk lingerie and a fetching woman's street costume. He gave his name as Bruce Barthing, and is believed to be implicated in the numerous robberies committed in the exclusive residential section of the North Side.

POSTAL CLERK QUITS TO GET BIGGER PAY

Lawrence, May 11.—In a letter of resignation to the postmaster, John W. Kelleher, sixteen years a clerk in the Lawrence Postoffice, said he was quitting the job because the salary of a postoffice clerk was not sufficient to sustain a "decent living." Since the first of the year about ten per cent. of the employes of the local system have resigned, some to take jobs in the mills.

ROCKEFELLER CAN'T GET WORKERS AT $4 A DAY

Tarrytown, N. Y., May 11.—John D. Rockefeller is offering about 400 jobs at $4 a day for work upon his Pocantico Hills estate with practically no takers. The lure of higher wages than the "richest man in the world" is willing to pay has robbed him of more than half of his corps of workmen, it was reported today.

Vanderbilt Leaves Sick Bed for Races

Paris, May 9 (delayed).—Proving once more that the "king of sports and the sport of kings" is his dominant interest in life, W. K. Vanderbilt defied his doctors today by motoring from his Sumer chateau at Longchamps to see the races. His physicians had ordered him to take a complete rest for several months, owing to the danger of a new attack of angina pectoris.

"Life isn't worth living unless I am able personally to run my horses," he said haughtily to his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough. "I simply couldn't stay away longer than a fortnight."

"Vanderbilt luck" is the watchword in the paddock, for the American millionaire heads the list of winners with $40,000 "to the good." Rothschild comes third with $25,000 and A. Macomber fifth, with $17,000.

MARINE CORPS OFFICERS ORDERED TO WAR COLLEGE

Newport, R. I., May 11.—Colonel Laurence H. Jones, Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander S. Williams, Major Robert B. Buttrick, who is completing his course, has been ordered to the torpedo station, to succeed Major Farquharson in command of the Marine barracks there.

FIGHT PARTITION OF IRELAND

Opposition to Home Rule Bill, Led by Asquith, Against Two Parliaments

London, May 11.—"Don't partition Ireland," was the slogan of the only serious opposition to the home rule bill developed in the House of Commons when the measure reached the committee stage.

Ex-Premier Asquith led the Independent, Liberal and Labor forces against the two-Parliament idea.

Onslaughts from the various sections lacked sting, however, owing to the certainty that Premier Lloyd George's well-disciplined majority is in a position to pass the bill unamended in any important particular by a clear 250 votes.

PRAISE SAVINGS LIFE INSURANCE

Coolidge in Letter and Warner and Hobbs in Speeches Laud Bank System

Savings bank life insurance was the topic of the annual dinner-conference of agency secretaries at Hotel Bellevue, attended by nearly 100 persons. The speakers included Joseph E. Warner, Speaker of the Massachusetts House, Miss Alice H. Grady, executive secretary for Savings Bank Life Insurance, who presided; Clarence W. Hobbs, State Commissioner of Insurance; Joseph C. Allen, Bank Commissioner; former Senator George L. Barnes, treasurer of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund; Judd Dewey, advisory counsel for the organization and Dr. Malcolm Seymour, State medical director.

Representatives of more than a score of firms having agencies for their employes were present, and reports were received from mutual benefit associations organized under the auspices of the Savings Bank Life Insurance Division. Questions from the floor were answered by Erwin R. Hurst, State Actuary, and Harry W. Kimball, social insurance worker.

Speaker Warren gave figures showing that in 1912 the savings banks had more than $2,000,000 of voluntary insurance; in 1915, more than $4,000,000; in 1916, more than $6,000,000; and this year nearly $15,000,000. The banks do not solicit directly, it was pointed out, that this growth was accomplished through newspaper publicity, posters, announcements inserted in the pay envelopes of employes, talks before organizations and the appointment of agency secretaries in industrial concerns.

A letter from Governor Coolidge was read in which he praised the work of the organization in securing cheap life insurance for residents of the Commonwealth.

Filene's—The inspiration of crowds

THERE IS a merchant from one of upper New York's larger cities who never makes a trip to the East but that he winds up in Filene's to watch the crowds. Filene crowds inspire him. They set the standards of how busy a store should be.

The Filene store nearly always houses a throng of people. And in the numbers of our customers is at once the result of and the inspiration for Filene Values. For the crowds come because Filene values are here; and Filene values come because the crowds buying them urge us on to renewed efforts!

So it happens that our out-of-town friend is never disappointed when he visits us. He finds inspiration in Filene crowds. And he finds that today as in 1881 Filene's is growing fast and growing for the same good reason that folks still find that "their money goes further here."

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on this subject made the astonishing statement that one reason why 40% of the applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Boston American.—Advertisement.

Mr. David Silverman Tells How Cuticura Healed His Eczema

"Was treated but got no relief. I was advised to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Sent for free sample. The first night I used them was the first night I slept without agony for months so I purchased more, and I used three fifty cent boxes of Ointment with the Soap which healed me." 'MARY' A BIG HIT AT THE TREMONT

By FRED J. McISAAC, Dramatic Editor.

"Mary" has come to stay awhile.

The latest George H. Cohan musical comedy production hits Boston right between the eyes last night at the Tremont Theatre. If laughter, applause and after-the-theatre comment mean anything at all "Mary" can stay all Summer.

Otto Harbach and Frank Mandel wrote the book and lyrics, Lou Hirsch composed the music, Julian Mitchell and Sam Forest staged the piece. Judging by the program George M. Cohan didn't have anything to do with it except hire the actors.

He said himself when they dragged him out of the wings at the end of the first act:

"I don't know what you want me for. I didn't write the show and I'm not in it. I'm not even in Equity actor."

Nevertheless the piece had Cohan stamped all over it. You could tell by the speed of everything, the long lines of people running gaily all over the stage, the skipping servants, the half dozen dancing teams who vary variety to every number, the ingenuity of the chorus business and the sentimental little dialogue that blends wizard of musical comedy was on the job.

Regarding the show itself, the music is by far the best ever produced by Lou Hirsch; the melodies are always good if not always original and the rhythms never flag. In fact, "pronto" is the motto of the whole score.

Harbach's book doesn't amount to much. It's a sentimental little story about a girl from Kansas named Mary who had a love affair with a boy named Jack, and didn't make him understand until ten minutes to eleven. In the meantime seventeen musical numbers and half a dozen specialties had romped their way along and a lot of lively people had been introduced and got well acquainted with the audience.

James Marlowe, he used to be Jimmie, one of the best low comedians in the business, got a lot of laughs, though handicapped by the role of a prosperous lawyer and a lot of grand raiment. Jack McGowan, who was here last in "Take It From Me," demonstrated that he is a good juvenile and one of the best baritones in musical comedy.

Then Georgia Calne came in. Somebody has given Georgia a drink of the stuff Ponce de Leon lost his life trying to find. She was the belle of the party, though playing a subordinate role.

Janet Velie, as the ingenuous Mary, sang very sweetly and was the plumpest heroine of the season. Our old chum, Charles Judels, with his corporature dialect, helped a lot in the comedy. The dancing outfits were Portia Mansfield, Lorraine Gerard, Sibella Bowhan, Bert Shadoy, Lillian McNeil, 36 Layman, Helen Hayes, Ethel Delmier and Elsie Gordon.

Among the musical numbers a topical song, "Money," made a huge hit, but the waltz songs, "Waiting" and the "Love's Nest" will probably get performed on the most suburban pianos. The chorus, male and female, is chiefly distinguished by its hard work.

PARK THEATRE—Heralded as a notable contribution to the present era of "fewer and better" pictures, a new bidder for popular favor, "Who's Your Brother?" had its premier showing in Boston yesterday at the Park Theatre. It deals in a big way with the subject of the brotherhood of man in the present day, and pitting into pictorial form one of the most delightful romances ever published, the production being based on the story of same title by Robert Bronson Steckbridge. The story is based on the theme that true happiness comes in unselfish service to others, on the responsibility of the strong and the wealthy to use their strength and their wealth for the common good of humanity, for the betterment of the lot of man wherever he is oppressed or in need—in other words, the author has taken for the fundamental idea the text "I Am My Brother's Keeper."

WALDRON'S CASINO—The intensely tragic playlet, "The Unknown Law," is presented all this week at Waldron's Casino as a feature of Mollie Williams' Greatest Show. This playlet was written at the suggestion of Miss Williams by Frank Fanning, who spent several years in Alaska, and who supports Miss Williams in the presentation of it. Those who are well acquainted with burlesque will recall the sensational success scored by Miss Williams and Mr. Fanning in the famous spectacle, "La Dans Entcivement." "The Unknown Law" is proving a still greater success, for its dramatic interest is even more intense; it gives Miss Williams a greater opportunity to display her dramatic ability and Mr. Fanning a greater opportunity for another sensational death fall.

MODERN AND BEACON—Wallace Reid is a shining success, both as a screen matinee idol and an up-to-date business man, in his new screen comedy, "The Dancing Fool," which opened at the Modern and Beacon Theatres last evening. Breezy Wallie has the role of "Vee" Tibbles from the country, who comes to New York to work for his uncle Enoch in the jug business for six dollars a week. Jimmy Budd, a cabaret dancer, discovers that in the space lies in his feet and "Vee" Tibbles blossoms out as her partner in New York's finest jazz palace. Irene Rowan, who has been a national favorite on the screen, was seen in "The Sacred Flame," a realistic drama of New York society life.

GAYETY THEATRE—There is a great deal more than mere suggestive dash effort in the burlesque show entitled "Step Lively, Girls," Arthur Pearson has brought to the Gayety Theatre. It is a sincere effort to make an entertainment of a high standard, and the clever producer has shown his good sense in entrusting the production to the hands of a lot of people in the burlesque ranks. Chief among them are "Shorty" McAllister, the little Englishman down, and Harry T. Shannon, one of the best types of American eccentric comedians.

GLOBE THEATRE—Score another triumph for Bessie Barriscale for her great role in "The Soul Market," by Mrs. Sands," which was shown for the first times in Boston at Lowe's Globe Theatre yesterday. It is a photo-drama filled with entertainment and a theme of human interest. Miss Barriscale has a role which draws deep on the emotional powers of this golden-haired favorite, and that she proves equal to the test is certainly evident to all who have witnessed the picture.

Coming Events

COLONIAL THEATRE—Next Monday evening at the Colonial Theatre Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., will present the 13th edition of the Ziegfeld Follies. As is his universal custom, he will present the same cast as was seen in the New York production.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Lewis Stone, Marjorie Daw, and other players in "The River's End," with Director Marshall Neilan, journeyed from Bear Valley, Cal., to Saskatchewan, river in Canada to take the final scenes in that photoplay which will be shown at Tremont Temple, commencing Monday, May 17.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—It is announced that the Selwyns, in association with Sam H. Harris, will bring to this city a new and timely comedy, entitled "31200 a Year," written by Edith Ferber and Kaufman Levy. The piece is scheduled to open Monday evening, May 17.

SHUBERT THEATRE—"Tii Say Sue Does" will begin its engagement at the Shubert Theatre next Monday night. A double interest attaches to this theatrical event. First, it marks the appearance here of a new musical comedy star, Miss Lenore Ulric, and R. C. DeSylva, second, it inaugurates the nation-wide "push for membership for the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion.

MANTELL, AS BRUTUS, IS EFFECTIVE

Robert B. Mantell last night, in "Julius Caesar," at the Hollis Street Theatre, gave Boston a most grateful Brutus,—credible, compelling sympathy, a patriot amid a junto of politician-patriots.

Mantell showed us why Brutus could not but be served as unqualified patriots have been served ad-known the way of the centuries. The honor of Brutus was made a vivid and thrilling thing, logically tending to his doom in a world of petty scheming and of commonprey played upon by spellbinding.

In the tent scene Brutus perhaps lived more whelmingly than in any other episode of the play, although at all times, and through all the dialogue with Portia, we had the line among the lesser beauties.

Mantell is pointedly effective, not only in the rendition of his lines, but also in the subtle business, the throwing of his cloak over the sleeping Lucius was a pretty and graceful piece of fi, and the tenderness, which, together with the unswerving consistency of the in all actions, spelled inevitable downfall.

Genevieve Hamper, in her brief appearance, furnished new tokens of ripening, although she still chants her lines. As Mare Antony, George Stillwell missed the nuances of the funeral speech, by underplaying the part. Guy Lindsley, the Caesar of the drama, was, on the contrary, something too lofty in his slightest words. The rushing Antony and the roaring Caesar might both have been tempered to advantage.

But Mantell, the breathing Brutus, dominated all and made it good. We cannot expect supporting companies that are perfection while Bostonians allow seats to go vacant at Shakespearian interpretations.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—"The Cabaret de Luxe," a musical singing and dancing production, scored a big hit at Lowe's Orpheum Theatre yesterday. This up-to-date production offers a cast of eight people, headed by Miss Billie Richmond. Dorothy Wahl in an artistic monologue and pianologue, pleased the audiences. Eddie Heron & Co. in a one-act comedy, "The Traveling Man," furnished many laughs.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM—"A Voice in the Dark," which was presented by the Temple Players at the Malden Auditorium yesterday for the first time in stock, proved a positive sensation. Those who remember its sensational run in Boston can vouch for the popularity of this great mystery drama.

GORDON THEATRES—The first time at popular prices, "In Old Kentucky," featuring Anita Stewart, was presented at the Gordon's Greater Boston Theatres, Gordon's Olympia, Scollay Square Olympia, Upham's Corner Strand and Gordon's Cambridge Central Square Theatre.

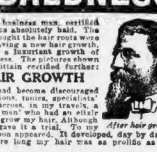
New Hair Growth After BALDNESS



On legal affidavit, John Hart Brittain, business man, certified to this: "My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The skin was shiny. An operation had been performed on my nerves (atrium) and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs." Mr. Brittain certified further:

INDIAN'S SECRET OF HAIR GROWTH

"At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian 'medicine man' who had an elixir which he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared, which developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and are long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

"That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind wildly. Friends noticed the hair roots all over my head, and were incredulous. No thing is used but the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the receipt and ingredients put in scientific form.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved."

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

It has been proved in very many cases that hair roots did not die even when the hair fell out through dandruff, fever, sickness, poor hair or scalp disorders. Miss A. D. Otto reports: "About 8 years ago my hair began to fall out until my scalp in spots was almost entirely bald. I used everything that I could but was always disappointed until at last I came across Kotalko. My hair began growing and stopped now; the growth is already about 2 inches long." G. W. Mitchell reports: "[illegible] had spots completely bald, over which my hair is now growing since I used Kotalko." Mrs. Matilda Maxwell reports: "The whole front of my head was as bald as the palm of my hand for about 15 years. Since using Kotalko, hair is growing and it is not bald." Many more splendid reports from satisfied users.

'CHOSEN KING' A BRILLIANT PAGEANT

Given for the benefit of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund, the Biblical pageant play, "The Chosen King," drew a large audience to the Boston Opera House last night. It was enthusiastically received.

Depicting as it does the correct interpretation of the story of Solomon as told in the Old Testament, the production has aroused wide interest among the clergymen of Greater Boston, who are expected to be present in large numbers tonight.

The lavish coloring and barbaric splendor of the ancient days are reflected in the elaborate stage settings. Among the most conspicuous being the royal gardens of King Solomon's palace in the third act and the courtyard of his temple, showing in the distance the completed temple of gold.

Chaplain Lyman Rollins, of the 101st Infantry during the war, appears in the role of Solomon and gave an impressive impersonation.

Miriam Ryder played the ungrateful character of Adonijah, while Walter L. Cowlishaw impersonated the aged King of the Hebrews, David. Thomas E. P. Wilson was seen as Nathan, prophet at the court of King David. Irving N. Poe made a realistic Armenites, chief of Pharaoh's Army of Egypt, while Jethro, the aged sheep herder, was acted by Andrew Stone.

Miss Bertha Braggiotti, fresh from her triumphs in the Vincent Club's annual play, appeared as the Queen of Sheba, demonstrating her remarkable talent for fancy and making a strikingly effective entrance in the last act, surrounded by her train of attendants.

Leah, daughter of Jethro and tool of Adonijah in the earlier scenes of the play, was ably impersonated by Ethel May Eagleston, while Helen St. Leger Murphy was seen as the Princess Karamat, daughter of Pharaoh of Egypt, and Edith Burton Porter appeared at Bethsheba, wife of King David and mother of Solomon.

Mayor Peters, Governor Coolidge and other prominent persons occupied boxes.

CODMAN SQUARE THEATRE—The name of Mary Pickford displayed on the front of a theatre stirring that her productions are being shown within is sufficient to draw a capacity audience and yesterday was typical at the Codman Square Theatre, Dorchester, were there to see their idol in "Pollyanna."

SOMERVILLE THEATRE—To those present at yesterday afternoon's performance of "The Silent Witness" it was apparent that all Somerville had turned out to welcome their popular son of the soil, Richard Gordon (Lawrence) back to the fold of the Somerville Theatre.

FRANKLIN PARK—"On With the Dance," featuring Mae Murray and an all-star cast, is the current attraction at the Franklin Park Theatre yesterday.

Memorial Concert

Sunday afternoon, May 23, there will be a big memorial concert under the auspices of the American Legion in honor of the boys who fell in Europe. Mme. Marie Rappold, soprano; Mme. Margarette Matzenauer, mezzo soprano; Signor Giovanni Martinelli, tenor, and Leon Rothier, bass, will be assisted by a chorus of 750 voices and an orchestra of 110 pieces.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Yesterday's program at Lowe's Columbia Theatre was headed by Miss Allison in "The Walk Off," which is admirably suited to the talents of this vivacious and beautiful star.

WALDORF THEATRE—"The girls From Happyland," a unique musical comedy aggregation, headed by Gus Mortimer and Harry Moore, in "A Night in Bohemia," a medley of song, dance and humor, is the feature at the Waldorf Theatre this week.

"Gets-It" Tonight Farewell To Corns!

Hurting Stops At Once--Corns Loosen and Lift Off.

Off comes that old misery maker, 'twixt your thumb and finger. Not even a struggle left in it after "Gets-It" has done its work. A few drops of "Gets-It" takes all the "pep" out of any corn or callus, stops its pain and loosens it so it almost falls off of itself.

It's no more trouble to lift off a corn after "Gets-It" is through with it than it is to brush a loose hair off your head. It works just that easy. Isn't it silly, then, to suffer from a corn day after day? Isn't it common sense to put a few drops of "Gets-It" on and be rid of the nuisance for good? Takes less of your time to permanently lose a corn with "Gets-It" than it does to "trim" it just once the dangerous razor, knife or file way. There's no "fail" in "Gets-It." It can't fail.

"Gets-It," the only sure, guaranteed, money-back corn remover, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Mfd. by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

FRAUD CHARGED IN STOCK WAR

Attorney Feeney and George L. Ware Are Waging Exciting Vocal Battle

Counter charges of fraud and slander were passed today between Attorney John P. Feeney and George L. Ware of the brokerage firm of George L. Ware & Co.

Feeney declared that he made an attack on Mutual Divide at the meeting of stockholders "to save the public from its own folly," while Ware said that he believed Feeney was acting on behalf of others who have sold stock in the company and are now unable to secure the certificates.

Never in the history of the Curb has there been such a bitter fight between "bulls" and "bears" as in the Mutual Divide controversy.

Ware said today that the company has not earned anything, that it was still a prospect, but he said he had faith in its success. He estimated that fully 600,000 shares of stock in the concern have been sold. There are only some 400,000 shares outstanding.

"The short interest is afraid that we who control the stock are going to make them pay dearly for their certificates in order to make good contracts. We could run the stock to $20 a share, I believe, but hesitate rather than catch some innocent purchasers. But the shorts will have to pay us a good price."

Ware explained that the Mutual Divide Mining Company has silver property in Nevada, but so far has been unable to earn any money. "Out of 1,500,000 shares of stock in this company," he said, "the Mutual Divide of Massachusetts trustees own 410,000 shares. New York interests own 750,000 shares and the rest is in the treasury.

"We organized the trustees so that stockholders in the mining company could exchange their stock for trustee stock. The trustees propose to develop properties as they turn up, whether they are oil or mineral.

"The trustees have one well drilling on the property known as the South Texas Company. This is the only development under way."

Attorney Feeney denied that he represented anyone but himself as a stockholder. "What I want and aim to secure," he said, "is a statement of assets and liabilities of the company to doubt whether they have accomplished anything and have anything to show to stockholders.

"The public should be protected from such projects as this."

15 JOIN U. S. MARINES AT BOSTON STATION

Marine Corps Recruiting Station at No. 22 Tremont row reports that the last two days for enlistments have been the busiest since the war-time recruiting campaign. Six men joined the Marines Saturday and nine yesterday. Whether the present rush to the colors is due to exceptional educational opportunities or possible service in Mexico, Major Ashburn, in charge, was unable to say. Fully 80 per cent. of the men enlisting are ex-service men. James Al Benshoof of Wollaston, champion long-distance swimmer, was among the latest to enlist.

INDIANS OPEN WESTERN INVASION AGAINST SOX AT FENWAY

CONTEST FOR LEAD BEGINS

First Game of Series Is Prevented by the Poor Weather

By NICK FLATLEY.

Tris Speaker and trouble report in Boston today, and the Red Sox fared one of the toughest tests that will be theirs this season, even thus early in May. Tris and his Indians have clattered through all opposition in the West, are leading the league by half a game and being acclaimed champions so soon.

The first game of the series was prevented by the poor weather.

The Indians have swept the West, just as the Sox have overcome the East. The series that starts tomorrow at the local ball yard was the first that could offer a real comparison of the strength of the two divisions of the league.

For years the Indians have wobbled dismally at the finish and surged toward the finish. But this time the outfit is away flying, and unless somebody has a wrench into the machinery, is likely to outfoot any opposition before the scramble swings by the half-way mark.

Pitchers of Both Clubs Going Well

Our Red Sox have surprised the world by their showing to date, but it must be admitted that the Eastern enemies do not shape up as dangerous as the birds from the far parts. The answer, however, is with us for the next few afternoons, and good weather will mean an outpouring that will hark back to the days when champion and Boston were synonymous.

The local pitchers have been showing well at times, but so have the invading flingers. As for example, Bagby and Covaleskie. Each has won six games, and not been beaten once this Spring. As the Covey person worked Sunday, and Bagby yesterday, the hostilies will be without their most valuable defensive factors, for two days at least.

Manager Speaker, though, has plenty of reserve material, Morton and Myers, among others, and the former was due to start the series, with the hope attached that he would have his ancient effectiveness against the Sox. He hasn't worked over much thus far, but is proclaimed ready to step into the regular program of events from now out.

Bush or Pennock to Hurl for Sox Tomorrow

Manager Barrow had Bush and Pennock lined up for the hectic opening, chances being that the right hander would draw the assignment. Bullet Joseph has worked himself into shape and requires plenty of exercise to keep at the top of condition.

Tall Harry Harper wised up the universe to the fact that he is on the job, by turning back the Mackmen carelessly in their ultimate game. Harry was inclined to be bit off the mark now and then, but got the ball over when he had to, and the A.'s had as much trouble hitting him as they have getting out of the second division.

Two hits represented the total of the hostile assault, and one of them came after the side should have been retired. The lank southpaw issued but four passes, only one after the third chapter. If he can show the same brand of pitching consistently, he will be a very valuable asset in these parts, especially since Waite Hoyt is likely to be out of the picture for some little time.

Loss of Hoyt Would Be Calamity

According to reports, that youth has merely a strained side or something inconsequential, but the fact remains that he has been anchored in a hospital, and will be there for a least forty-eight hours. It is said that the move was made to insure absolute rest and quiet for the injured athlete.

Losing Hoyt, just now with the Western squadrons approaching, would be nothing less than fatal. The youngster is the most promising of the league's new pitchers, strong as a Hercules, and able to work very frequently. The Sox strength depends principally upon pitching, and the loss of one real hurler means a quick drop from the glory of the eminence.

The Americans arrived at the Newcastle course last week and have been doing well in practice. They are all in the upper half of the draw, with Miss Cecil Leitch, the British champion, in the lower half. Miss Leitch is the favorite to retain the title. EAYRS ON MOUND AGAINST CARDS

Braves Full of Confidence as They Start Western Invasion; New Pitcher Signed

St. Louis, May 11.—The league-leading Braves began their invasion of the West here today full of confidence that they would hand the Cardinals the same dose they had been pouring out to the Giants, at al. back East.

The Cardinals have not been going in the best style this year. They fight hard and all that, but somehow or other Branch Rickey's charges generally fail short when it comes to turning in victories.

Time was when southpaws were just to the liking of the St. Louisians, but the portside flingers have been making merry at their expense this year. Wherefore Manager Stallings elected Eddie Eayrs to do the hurling for the Tribe in today's affair. Eddie has not pitched for about two weeks, but has been keeping in top form just the same. John Scott was held in reserve in case the Cards took too kindly to the Eayrs offerings.

Goodwin looked like the most probable selection for the Rickeys.

The Braves stopped over on their voyage here at Steubenville, O., and won a ball game, 3 to 2. They also took on another pitcher, John Watson, who, a couple of years back, pulled the "iron-man" stunt on the Red Sox while laboring for Cornelius McGillicuddy of Philadelphia.

COACH HAINES DROPS 4 FRESHMAN OARSMEN

What Is Nuxated Iron?

Physician Explains—Says Public Ought To Know What They Are Taking—Practical Advice on What To Do To Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over three million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic, strength and blood builder in weak, nervous, run-down conditions has led to an investigation of its merits by designated physicians and others whose reports should be of great importance to the public generally. Among these is the statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician at Bellevue Hospital Outdoor Dept., New York, and Westchester County Hospital, who says: "When one patient after another began asking me opinion of Nuxated Iron, I resolved to go thoroughly into the subject and find out for myself whether or not it possessed the real value claimed by its manufacturers and uttered to by so many prominent people. This I exactly what I found every honest, conscientious physician should do before prescribing or lending his endorsement to any product whatever. If as a result of a thorough test practitioners ought to be the first to know of it and if it is efficacious we are in duty bound to recommend it for the welfare of our patients. A study of the composition of the Nuxated Iron formula so impressed me with the therapeutic efficacy of the product that I immediately tested it in a number of obstinate cases. So quickly did it increase the strength, energy and endurance of the patients to whom it was administered that I became firmly convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder. I have since used it myself with excellent results. There are thousands of delicate, nervous, run-down folks who need just such a preparation as this but do not know what to take. Therefore I have urgently suggested the widespread publication of the sworn statement of the compounding of its formula, so that the public may know exactly what they are taking. This complete formula is now to be found in newspapers throughout the country. It is composed principally of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of a special specific standard, and glycerophosphates which is one of the most costly tonic ingredients known. To the credit of the manufacturers it may be said that they use the most expensive form of iron procurable, whereas by employing other makes they could have put the same quantity of metallic iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost and by using metallic iron they could have reduced the cost to less than one-twelfth, but he thus cheapening the product they would undoubtedly have impaired its therapeutic efficacy. In my opinion a careful examination of the formula by any physician or pharmacist should convince him that Nuxated Iron is to be placed among the very highest class and most strictly ethical preparations known to medical science. It exels anything I have ever used for building up the system and increasing the red blood corpuscles, thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease.

ROYAL WELCOME PLANNED FOR GEORGES CARPENTIER TONIGHT

NOTABLES TO GREET BOXER

Governor, Mayor, Gen. Edwards and Others Expected to Be at Triple A. Show

By JACK CONWAY.

Hail Georges Carpentier!

America dearly loves a red-blooded fighting man. Thousands will pay tribute to Carpentier tonight when he appears in the feature role at the Armory A. A.'s monster boxing carnival at Mechanics Building. They will have an opportunity to see the French champion in action in a four-round bout.

The man who will be the next opponent of Jack Dempsey will show the wonderful speed, skill and punching ability which has enabled him to fight his way to the front ranks of his boxing division.

Carpentier has given satisfaction during his tour of America and Canada. One of the reasons why he has gone big with the fans is because he doesn't give colorless exhibitions. Just now Carpentier is fitting himself for a championship bout with Jack Dempsey and so gives everything he has when he is in the ring. He instructs his sparring partners to go at him as though they were in a real battle. Then Carpentier is in a position to display his real boxing class.

Gave Up Rich Purse to Fight for France

Few boxers occupy the lofty position that has been reached by the French champion. Before the war he was heavyweight champion of Europe. At the time the Germans started their march through Belgium, Carpentier was in London matched to meet Bombardier Wells, who was then the British heavyweight champion. Carpentier was to receive a big purse for this match.

As soon as France sounded the call to arms, Carpentier forgot all about his pending match with Wells. He turned a deaf ear to the ring promoters and directed his gaze toward France. It was not long before he was on the battle line fighting against the enemy with the same determination he had shown in the ring.

For four years Carpentier remained in service. During that time he received several tempting offers for bouts and tours. The French government was willing that Carpentier go on leave, as it realized that his presence in other countries would be good propaganda for France.

Carpentier, however, wouldn't leave his place in the ranks. He wanted to stay in the big fight until the decision had been rendered in favor of the Allies.

Returned to Ring When War Was Over

Once the war was won, Carpentier turned once more to the ring. Joe Beckett, who knocked out Bombardier Wells in London last night, was his opponent in his first bout. Beckett is a big, strong fellow with a punch. It took Carpentier less than a round to knock him out.

Then came calls from America. The promoters want to match the Frenchman with Jack Dempsey. Carpentier is eager for the test. He believes his skill and speed will enable him to keep away from Dempsey for five or six rounds until the champion tires. He says he will then be in a position to score with a winning punch.

The present tour was arranged so that the boxing fans of America and Canada might have an opportunity to get a line on Carpentier. After they have seen him in action, he believes they will agree with him when he says he can beat Dempsey.

Travels in Special De Luxe Car

Carpentier is travelling in a special de luxe car. It has all the conveniences of a first-class hotel. It was one of the cars used by royalty when the distinguished families of Europe visited America during the war.

Carpentier will not be the only attraction at Mechanics building tonight. There will also be three ten-round bouts and a six-session affair.

Freddy Williams of Dorchester and Young Chakas of Manchester, N. H., will clash in one ten-round bout. These boys have engaged in several stirring engagements and should furnish a live mill.

Young Gould of Brockton and Charley Shepard of New York will meet in another ten-round whirl. Both of these youths are rough fighters and don't worry about such things as boxing rules. Joe Butler of Buffalo and Sammy Schiff of Harrisburg will clash in another tenrounder. There will also be a six-round preliminary.

Governor Coolidge, Mayor Peters, General Edwards, Admiral Robinson, the French consul and many other notables will be guests at the ringside.

Yale Divinity Dean Approves Boxing

Chicago, May 11.—Ring combats received the stamp of approval of Dean Charles R. Brown of the Yale University Divinity School in an address given here.

"Although I've never seen a pugilistic encounter, I've been interested in the sport since the days of John L. Sullivan," he said. "Whenever there is a big one I read the account of it the next day with interest. I believe that the man who denies the lure of a combat is lacking in some respects. Don't suppress your fighting instinct—guide it."

NATICK FIGURES IN HARVARD WIN

Phone Operator Aids Pooch Donovan to Send Instructions to Crimson Athletes

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Natick once again figures in a Harvard victory.

On this occasion it was not an Eddie Mahan, or an Eddie Casey, or a Billy Murray, but a Natick young lady whose name has not yet been learned.

This maiden fair is a telephone operator in the Natick exchange who, by successfully putting through a call connecting "Pooch" Donovan, the Harvard track coach, with Dannie O'Connell, the Crimson captain, enabled the former to juggle about the Harvard track team in such manner that Harvard won one first place in its postponed dual meet with Tech, which was not included in the pre-meet dope. And, by virtue of the five points thereby acquired, Harvard gained an advantage Tech could not overcome and won the meet staged at Tech Field by the score of 65½ to 61½.

"Pooch," who has been ill at his home for the past week, was not too ill to figure out the best way to employ his somewhat limited number of track and field men. He figured Tech's quarter-milers were a bit too strong for Goodwin. Harvard's best middle-distance runner, but saw there was a chance for the latter in the half-mile, and, on "Pooch's" telephonic instructions O'Connell started Goodwin in the 880 instead of the 440, and Goodwin, running the race of his career, slid past Chittick and then Barden of the Tech team and captured the event by two yards.

Origin of Coal

AFTER an exhaustive study of a number of coal seams, James Lomax concludes that almost all had their origin in vegetable matter deposited on the spot, the coal substance being formed by the droppings of leaves, twigs, bark and fruits, in the shape of seeds and fructiferous cones mainly from large trees.

THE YOUNG DIANA

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

An Experiment of the Future

By Marie Corelli

NOW he had arrived at "the ultimate culmination of the Eighth, or, as he described it, the close of the rebound of the Octave"—and in this "rebound" or "culmination" his subject, Diana, was to take part as a note within a sun-ray.

She did not disguise from herself the danger in which she stood—but she had thought out every argument for and against the ordeal which she had voluntarily accepted. She measured the value of her life from each standpoint and found it nil, except in so far as her love for natural beauty was concerned. She would be sorry, she said inwardly, to leave the trees, the flowers, the birds, the beautiful things of sky and sea, but she would not be sorry at all to see the last of human beings!

Memory Was Keen

With all her indifference, which even to her own consciousness, enshrined her as within barriers of ice, her memory was keen — she looked back to the few months of distance and time which separated her from the old life of the dutiful daughter to inconsiderate and selfish parents—and beyond that, she went still further and saw herself as a young girl full of hope and joy, given up heart and soul to the illusion of love, from which she was torn by the rough hand of the very man to whom she had consecrated her every thought. In all this there was nothing excitable or regrettable that she should now be sorry or afraid to die—and in her life to come—if she lived—what would there be? Her eyes turned almost without her own consent towards the mirror—and there she read the answer.

She would possess the power to rule and sway the hearts of all men—if she cared! But now it had so happened that she did not care. Smouldering in her soul like the last spent ashes of a once fierce fire, there was just one passion left—the strong desire of vengeance on all the forces that had spoilt and embittered her natural woman's life. She was no longer capable of loving, but she knew she could hate!

A woman seldom loves deeply and truly more than once in her life—she stakes her all on the one chance and hope of happiness, and the man who takes advantage of that love and ruthlessly betrays it may well beware. His every moment of existence is fraught with danger, for there is no destructive power more active and intense than love transformed to hate through falsehood and injustice. And Diana admitted to herself, albeit reluctantly, that she could hate deeply and purposefully. She hated herself for the fact that it was so—but she was too honest not to acknowledge it. Her spirit had been wounded and maltreated by all on whom she had set her affections—and as her way of life had been innocent and harmless, she resented the unfairness of her fate.

Wrong or right, she longed to retaliate in some way on the petty blights, the meannesses, the hypocrisies and neglect of those who had assisted in spoiling her youth and misjudging her character, and though she was willing to "love her enemies" in a broad and general sense, she was not ready to condone the easy callousness and cruelty of the persons and circumstances which had robbed her of the natural satisfaction and peace of happy womanhood.

Lost in Reverie

For a long time she sat in the open window, long in a reverie—till she saw the sun beginning to sink in a splendid panoply of crimson and gold, with streaming clouds of fleecy white and pale amber spreading from east to west, from north to south, like the unfurling flags of some great fairy's victorious army, and then a sudden thrill ran through her blood which made her heart beat and her face grow pale —it was close upon the destined hour when—ah!—she would not stop to think of the "when" or the "where"—suddenly she knelt down, and with folded hands said, her prayers simply as a child, though with more than child's fervor. She had scarcely breathed the last "Amen," when a light tap came on her door, and on her calling "Come in"—Vasho entered, carrying a small parcel with a note from Dimitrius. Handing it to her, he significantly but expressive signs that he would wait outside for the answer. As soon as he had retired, she opened the note and read as follows:

"You will please disrobe yourself completely, and wear only this garment which I send. No other material must touch any part of your body. Let your hair be undone and quite free—no hairpins must remain in it, and no metal of any sort must be on your person—no ring, bracelet, or anything whatsoever. When you are ready, Vasho will bring you to me in the laboratory."

Having mastered these instructions she undid the packet which accompanied them—and unfolded a plain, long, white robe of the most exquisitely beautiful texture woven apparently of many double strands of silk. It was perfectly opaque—not the slightest glimmer of the light itself could be seen through it, yet it shone with a curious luminance as though it had been dipped in frosted silver. For a moment she hesitated. A tremor of natural dread shook her nerves,—then, with a determined effort, mastering herself, she hurried into her bedroom, and there undressing, laid all her clothes neatly folded up on the bed. The action reminded her of the way she had folded up her clothes with similar neatness and left them on the rocks above the sea on the morning she had decided to effect a lasting disappearance by "drowning."

Greater Plunge

"And now"—she thought—"Now comes a far greater plunge into the unknown than ever I could have imagined possible!"

In a few minutes she was "attired for the sacrifice," as she said, addressing these words to herself in the mirror, and a very fair vision she looked. The strange, white sheeny garment in which she was clothed from neck to feet gave her the appearance of an angel in a picture—and the youthful outline of her face, the delicacy of her skin, the deep brilliancy of her eyes, all set off against a background of glorious amber-brown hair, which rippled in plentiful waves over her shoulders and far below her waist, made her look more of a vision than a reality.

"Good-bye, you poor, lonely Diana!" she said, softly, "if you never come back I am glad I saw you just like this—for once!"

She kissed her hand to her own reflection, then turned and went swiftly through the rooms, not looking at Vasho, waiting for her in the outer hall, could not put together disguise his wonderment at sight of her—but he saluted in his usual passively humble Eastern manner, and led the way, signing to her to follow. The house was very quiet—they met no one, and very soon arrived at the ponderous door of the laboratory, which swung noiselessly upwards to give them entrance. Within, there seemed to be a glowing furnace of fire; the great Wheel emitted such ceaseless and brilliant showers of flame in its rotations that the whole place was filled with light that almost blinded the eyes, and Diana could scarcely see Dimitrius, when, like a black speck detaching itself from the surrounding sea of crimson vapor, he advanced to meet her. His was exceedingly pale, and his eyes were feverishly brilliant.

"So you have come!" he said, "I am such a sceptic that at this last moment I doubted whether you would!"

She looked at him steadfastly, but answered nothing.

"You are brave—you are magnificent!" he went on, his voice sinking to a lower tone—"But, Diana—I want you to say one thing before I enter on this last task—and that is—will you forgive you?"

"I will say it if you like," she answered. "But why should I? I have nothing to forgive!"

"Ah, you will not say—you cannot understand—"

"I see and understand perfectly!" she said, quickly. "But, if I live, my life remains my own—if I die, it will be your affair—but there can be no cause for grudge either way!"

"Diana," he repeated, earnestly—"Say just this—'Feodor, I forgive you!'"

She smiled — a strange little smile of pity and pride commingled, and stretched out both hands to him. "To her surprise he knelt before her and kissed them.

Get to Work

"Feodor, I forgive you!" she said, very quietly, in the penetrating accents which were so exclusively her own—"Now, magician, get to work quickly! Apollonious of Tyana and Paracelsus were only children playing on the shores of science compared to you! When you are ready, I am!"

He sprang up from his kneeling attitude, and for a moment looked about him as one half afraid and uncertain. His amazing piece of mechanism, the great Wheel, was revolving slowly and ever more slowly, for outside in the heavens the sun had sunk, and the massed light within the laboratory's crystal dome was becoming less and less dazzling. Astonishing reflections of prismatic color were gathered in the dark water below the Wheel as though millions of broken rainbows had been mixed with its mysterious blackness.

Quietly Diana waited, her white-robed figure contrasting singularly with all the fire-glow which enveloped her in its burning lustre,—and her heart beat scarcely one pulse the quicker when Dimitrius approached her, holding with extreme care a small but massive crystal cup. It was he who trembled, not she, as she looked at him inquiringly. He spoke, striving to steady his voice to its usual even tone of composure.

"This cup," he said—"if it contains anything, contains the true elixir for which all scientists have searched through countless ages. They failed, because they never prepared the cells of the human body to receive it. I have done all this preparatory work with you, and I have done it more successfully than I ever hoped. Every tiniest cell or group of cells that goes to form your composition as a human entity is now ready to absorb distillation of the particles which generate and shape existence. This is the Sacramental Cup of Life! It is what early mystics dreamed of as the Holy Grail. Do not think that I blaspheme!—no!—I seek to show the world that Science can give it of true and positive communion with the thing of God!

"The elements that commingle to make this Universe and all that is therein, are the real 'bread and wine' of God's love—and whoever can and will absorb such food may well preserve body and soul unto everlasting life! Such is the great union of Spirit with Matter—such is the truth after which the Churches have been blindly groping in their symbolic 'holy communion' feebly materialized in 'bread and wine' as God's body and blood! But the actual 'body and blood' of the Divine are the everchanging, but never destructible elements of all positive Life and Consciousness. And you are prepared to receive them."

Thrill of Awe

A thrill of strange awe ran through Diana as she heard. His reasoning was profound, yet lucid —it was true enough, she thought, that God—that is to say, the everlasting spirit of creative power—is everywhere and in everything—yet to the average mind it never occurs to inquire deeply as to the subtle elements wherewith Divine Intelligence causes this "everywhere" and "everything" to be made. She remained silent, her eyes fixed on the crystal cup, knowing that for her it held destiny.

"You are prepared," resumed Dimitrius, "I have left nothing undone. And yet—you are but woman——"

"Not weaker than man!" she interrupted him, quickly. "Though men have sought to make her so in order to crush her more easily! Give me the cup!"

He looked at her in undisguised admiration.

"What's In a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

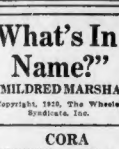
CORA



Copyright by Harris & Ewing

CHARMINGLY youthful is Cora, modern derivative of ancient Greek. Many feminine names ta Greece were merely men's names with a feminine termination in "a" or "e," irrespective of their meaning, and this is true of Cora, which, quaintly enough, signifies maiden.

However she is derived, Cora is the most feminine of names, and was given to some of the most alluring heroines of romance. Originally the name was taken from Persephone's title, "Kora," a maiden, the Boetian poetess who won a wreath of victory at Thebes, Corinna was the next step in the evolution of Cora, and she came about through the literary habits of revolving old Greek names, a fetish with enterprising writers in search of a fresh title for a heroine.

Madame de Stael named her brilliant Corinna after the Boetian poetess above mentioned, and that established her name forever in France, where she has been handed down from one French maid to another through generations of poetic fancy. In Italy she becomes Corinne through the "Hesphai," a chronicle of the Middle Ages. Lord Byron makes her Cora in his famous poem and through him her name is unquestionably established in England and America.

Modern writers favor her, both as Corinna and Cora. She is the captivating, capricious heroine of modern story, the most memorable example perhaps being the Cora of Booth Tarkington's book, "The Flirt." Poets have never neglected her, especially the poets of the pastoral age. Her significance and the youthful charm invariably associated with her through her evolution made her almost a synonym for rural maiden, just as Sylvia is a generic term for shepherdess.

"When My Corinna Goes A-Maying" is one of the most charming lyrics of that age and familiar to all.

Cora's jewel is the diamond, which promises her protection from danger. Saturday is her lucky day and 3 her lucky number. The daisy, signifying innocence, is the flower assigned to her.

Anecdotes of the Famous

Perhaps the most remarkable fact regarding M. Deschanel, the new President of France, is that twenty-six years ago he fought a duel with M. Clemenceau, being slightly wounded in the forehead.

Apart from his abilities as an orator and politician, M. Deschanel has the reputation of being the best dressed man in France. He has probably originated more fashions in men's clothes than any country than any other individual.

Although he is a dandy, however, the story that he never wears a suit of clothes twice is quite untrue.

The Countess of Warwick has long been noted for her practical interest in welfare work.

One of her best known conceras on occasion when she canvassed the humble quarters of a northern town on behalf of a well-known labor leader, and encountered at the first house she visited a matron of the most determined character. "May I see Mr. ——?" she asked. "No, you can't," answered the matron decisively. "But I want to know what party he belongs to," said Lady Warwick. The woman drew up her tall figure. "Well, take a good look at 'im," she said. "I'm the party he belongs to!"

The tyranny of the tip was one of the first things that struck George I. when he came over to claim his throne. "This is a strange country," Horace Walpole reports him to have said. "The first morning after my arrival at St. James' I looked out of the window and saw a park with walks and a canal, which they told me were mine. The next day Lord Chetwynd, the ranger of the park, sent me a brace of fine carp from my canal, and I was told I must give five guineas to Lord Chetwynd's servants for bringing me my own fish, out of my own canal, in my own park."

The late Colonel Roosevelt told this story against himself. Some few years ago he went into a certain bookshop in Idaho and espied on the counter a copy of his latest book. Picking it up casually he remarked to the shopkeeper:

"Who is this Roosevelt?"

"Oh," was the somewhat scornful reply, "he's just some chap who once had been a ranchman. I've often thought I'd like to meet him and tell him that if he'd stuck to ranching and not tried to write books he'd have cut a heap bigger figure-ah that than as an author."

When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

"NEAL, young fellow, my lad, I've made a fine botch of my life. And I've done little enough to make the finest woman in the world happy. Do you want to come to my age feeling the same way? Pride's the most expensive luxury in the world, Neal. Are you going to wreck your life on yours—your life and hers?"

"Next thing you know, Babbs, I had Phoebe on the 'phone. And I was acting her all breathless and scared of she'd see me for five minutes. Dizzy I was for fear she'd turn me down.

Then Phoebe interrupted with a happy laugh:

"I was more scared than he was, Anne. But I said—why not for ten minutes? I almost died of shame when I heard the words coming. But he called me a darling and said he'd be at the apartment in a taxi in record time. And I was in the lobby waiting—"

"And I gave the doorman a fiver for knowing enough to look the other way at the right time," added Neal, interrupting in turn. "And now all I've got to do is persuade the little girl that next week is the ideal time for a wedding."

Asked to Dinner

"Don't be in such a rush," I said, getting up and turning my back on their unashamed joy of each other. "I'll skew as much knowledge of which way to look as any doorman can display," I added lightly.

But my thoughts weren't light at all. I was wondering how Virginia —who had never approved of Neal —would accept him now. Now that he had been publicly jilted by Evvy Mason. Now that he was Pat Dalton's partner.

"Of course you'll stay to dinner, children." I observed to Neal and Phoebe—trying not to let feminine sentimentality find any flaw in this happy occasion. Neal and Phoebe had come together for a betrothal dinner.

"You'll bet we'll stay," agreed Neal heartily. "If ever I wanted to shake a man's hand until it ached, that hand belongs to old Jimmie. Some brother, Jimmie—no sure has stood by!"

Jim Greatly Pleased

I wondered how much Neal had told Phoebe of Jim's part in winning freedom for him from Evvy. But that was a problem on which I knew I'd always have to be silent. The game had gone Evvy's way for so long, I had been so terrified up to the very last for fear she was going to win, that the whole subject, was a very tender one with me. And I imagined it must be a far more tender one to Phoebe, whose happiness had depended entirely on Jim's coup. Suppose it hadn't been successful—suppose Evvy hadn't released Neal? I couldn't think about it calmly, much less dream of mentioning it.

So my surprise was overwhelming when Jim got home, and Neal rushed to greet him with a laughing:

"Hail, Jim the Giant-killer! I'm your brother now, whether you like it or not. Your brother twice over, Phoebe's—" Then his laughing voice broke, and he said with a quaver straightening to pride that defied the world, "Phoebe cares for me—after all, Jim, the way I do for her. We're going to be married."

And Phoebe, tumbling into Jim's arms with something between a laugh and sob, cried:

"You darling old match-maker! You got him back for me, didn't you?"

Jim was hugging Phoebe and pumping Neal's hand, seemed no whit less frank than they and as little embarrassed by that frankness. I loved them all for it. Phoebe and Neal were facing the future so happily and securely that they weren't afraid to face the past and all the difficulties that had separated them for so long.

"Has any one asked Jeanie to the family dinner or told her the news?" Jim asked suddenly.

I had been waiting for this—and dreading it. Even if everyone else had forgotten that Virginia was Virginia and that pride was part of her, I hadn't. I wasn't looking for a miracle to make her accept Neal joyfully. But it seemed to me Jim was the person to deal with her. So I made my suggestion:

Sent Jim Over

"Jim, why don't you go over and get Jeanie? While you're calling for her I'll attend to our festal board —have a conference with Angy. I mean. And that will give the kiddies a quiet hour together. Tell Virginia dinner won't be till seven-thirty, so she'll have time to break any other engagement and make herself fine for the occasion."

"Good idea. You phone her that I'm on the way," agreed Jim—adding jovially a word or two that set me to thinking. "Of course we ought to have Virginia—Phoebe's legal guardian—at the party."

"Why, I thought you were"—I began tonchily. "Surely the brother ought to be the head of the family."

"Yes, only brother wasn't of legal age when a guardian was needed," said Jim, adding with a sunny smile, that only stressed his devotion to his sister Virginia: "Not that I'd have minded stepping aside for Jeanie if I'd been twenty-four to her twenty instead of the other way round. Jeanie has a level head

Romantic Serial by a Noted Author

—far more so than mine, I'm thinking."

"You'll have to go some to prove to Phoebe and me that any one in the world has a better head than you, Jimmie, my boy," beamed Neal.

So, with grins and mutual admiration all round, Jim left us. When I went in to call Virginia her line was busy. On the whole I thought it just as well, for Jim could surely manage her better face to face than I could over the phone. Still I made a second effort in the intervals of getting out my beautiful new damask tablecloth and planning the courses of the sudden dinner party with Angy.

A properly subsided elevator boy rushed round to the florist's for posies. Bertha fell to polishing silver and shining glassware with complete good will and lots of muscle power. I whipped cream and sliced peaches madly and turned out a can of crab meat for deviled crabs, while Angy sifted potatoes to be riced and got a few biscuit shortcaks ready for popping into the oven.

An Amazing Confession

Then I flurried into a new changeable taffeta of orchid and silver. Phoebe had made herself fine for her meeting with Neal in an adorable salmon pink panlette which she must have fairly jumped into, but which nevertheless made her look like a fresh rose and cherry blossoms. I hummed to myself as I dreamed what a gay and perfect little party this was going to be. Jim strode into the room looking like a thunder cloud.

"I sneaked in the back way," he said amazingly.

"Where's Jeanie?" I asked.

The flakes dissolve instantly in boiling water. You swish your faded collar about in the rich lather. In a twinkling it has as lovely a color as when you bought it.

The Twink colors are so fast you can wash a garment several times before you need Twink it again. Twink will not harm any fabric that water alone will not harm.

Stocks Weak in New York and Boston Markets

SUGARS UP AT THE OUTSET

Motors, Steels, Rails, Oils and Equipments Show Losses at Noon

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were weak in New York at noon. They were strongest early in the second hour, but reacted late in the forenoon. At the end of tat period stocks, oils, motors, rails and equipments were showing losses. Sugars had receded from their highest. Trading was dull from the start.

First hour transactions totalled but 200,000 shares. Vanadium and Replogle held a spurt of activity and advanced. The former was up two and the last or more than three points at their high level. But they reacted with the rest and lost part of their gains. Sloss-Sheffield was another to be the wildest motors. Foreign exchange rate were a little higher at the opening.

Call money renewed at 7 per cent.

DOWNWARD TREND AT START.

While prices were irregular as to changes at the opening, the trend was downward from the start. The majority of active issues were off one point and within fifty minutes almost every-thing on the list was under pressure. Aside selling helped weaken the market, while floor trade was added to the pressure. The decline it was gradual, early losses ranging from fractions to about two points. Sugars were the first exception to the general movement, advancing 2. Tanfin Rubber was also strong. Steels were irregular, oils showed some strength as a class, motors were steady and there was not enough business in rails to be indicative of trend. Atlantic Gulf was in demand and advanced several points during the first half-hour. As the whole the market was indefinite. Traders awaited developments and talked bearish with few exceptions. Before the end of an hour Sugars had developed good strength.

PEAR STOCK SALE TAX.

While it is doubted that Congress will pass any bill taxing transactions in stocks to the extent proposed, the fear that something will be done along that line is causing grave worry. Belief obtains that it would kill the stock market movement, new issuance, and cause a literally chaotic condition. The money situation is about the same, but the strain may not be quite so acute, the improvement has been too slight to be discernible, except to a few optimists. There are several signs that the stock market will be somewhat thoroughly liquidated. The big increase in loans revealed by the latest New York bank statement is one of them. Renewed activity of the stock market would have to absorb the call rate killing. The advance yesterday was slight, but it was a warning.

TWO CHARGES FOLLOW AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Charges in two courts, of speeding and reckless driving of a motor car, grew out of the collision of Joseph Jelfus of Cottage street, Dorchester, with a motor truck. Jelfus, arrested on information of the Charlestown police, Roy Martin, an attache of the Naval Hospital, complained that his automobile was struck by that of Jelfus, who drove away. The latter was soon police located the car and found the loaded weapon. Jelfus was held on that charge for trial in the municipal court, and on a charge of violation of speed laws for the Charlestown court.

PRICES LOWER IN BOSTON

Local Trading Listless All the Morning; Mutual Trust an Active Curb Issue

Prices were lower on the Boston Stock Exchange at the opening and the market was narrow and quiet to an unusual degree. It remained weak during the morning. Almost all issues were inactive. There was trading were either off or unchanged. Packing house shares were fairly active and continued to decline. This movement on their part is largely due to Western selling. On one sale Punta Alegre advanced nearly five points. North Butte advanced a trifle on the first. Boston and Eastern Manufacturing was also higher by a small fraction.

Swift International, Libby and Cooper Rance receded a point each, while Swift & Company were unchanged. Boston & Maine, New Haven, United Shoe, Mohawk, Waldorf, Waltham Watch, Orpheum and National Leather.

Issues to sell unchanged included the Boston Elevated, Massachusetts Gas, Mayflower, United Drug common New England Telephone, Eastern Steamship, Mexican Investment, Calumet & Arizona and Walworth.

CURB MARKET IS DULL.

The Curb had another very quiet opening. It was dull all the morning and without incident of interest. Mutual Trust was active at the outset, advancing 1-16 to 1%. Among issues to open higher were Hecla Mining, Bunker Hill and Southwestern Miami. Weak stocks at the start were Arizona Silver, Black Hawk, Midway, Universal Silver, Canada Mexico and Eureka.

The market had a better tone at the of an hour when Arizona Silver was up 3 cents at 75 cents, Midway 1 cent at 69 cents, and Southwestern Miami ¼ at 3½. Among losses at that period were Canada Mexico off at 10⅝, Eureka ⅜ at 1, and Universal Silver 1 cent at 7 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

March sales by the Stewart Manufacturing Corporation totalled $296,009, its high record for any month.

The proposal to sink the Hoover mine to the ground encountered in its drift are to the effect that it is regarded as the north there are spots of good looking ground but it is not looked upon as of enough grade to own further. The west crosscut is through to footwall and has encountered nothing but ore, showing the ledge from footwall to hanging wall to be 100 feet.

The Boston Edison Company has declared of the price of gasoline to 31 cents a gallon, and by cents, will become effective with the narrow gauging.

Manufacturing Company's sales this year up to April 24 approximated $3,000,000, against $2,000,000 for the same period last year.

Newly chartered Massachusetts corporations include Kent Theatres, capital $100,000; capital $200,000; Sterling Drug Manufacturing of Boston, capital $100,000.

U. S. STEEL TONNAGE SURPRISED WALL STREET

Wall Street was somewhat surprised over the report by the United States Steel Corporation concerning April operations. Unfilled tonnage of 10,351,747 tons, an increase of 467,672 for the month, was much more than was expected by the street, however, that the gain would have been smaller but for the railroad strike. The tonnage by sections of men at terminals retarded steel shipments to a considerable extent.

Unfilled tonnage reported by the U. S. Steel Corporation's books represents more than its finished capacity to the end of the year. It is figured that earnings for 1920 should exceed $20 a share on common.

COPPER CONSUMERS BACK IN THE MARKET

Copper producers report that domestic consumers are back in the market, perhaps being impressed by the fact that credit arrangements, which were increasingly straitened by Boston & Maine, New Haven, United Shoe, Mohawk, Waldorf, Waltham Watch, Orpheum and National Leather.

Issues to sell unchanged included the Boston Elevated, Massachusetts Gas, Mayflower, United Drug common New England Telephone, Eastern Steamship, Mexican Investment, Calumet & Arizona and Walworth.

Sears, Roebuck Sales

Sears, Roebuck & Co. are doing a tremendous business, their sales for the first four months of 1920 being at the rate of $385,000,000 for the year and indicating a gain of $122,000,000 over 1919. These figures are significant because they indicate that wage earners, while considerably more than formerly, a class constituting the principal patrons of mail order houses, are still spending money at an unprecedented rate.

Japan Buying Less Steel

Japan is buying less steel in this country owing to its financial difficulties, but it is said that the credits placed when prevailing rates were accepted has taken care of amounts owed. For many months Japanese interests were the largest buyers of steel products in this market.

Saloon 'Holdup' Men Prove 'Dry' Agents

Flourishing revolvers held in nervous hands, and shouting to saloon patrons to be quiet, two "gangmen," who proved to be prohibition agents "held up" the saloon of John J. McGarry, according to a witness testifying in the case against McGarry, an Atlantic avenue liquor dealer, before United States Commissioner Hayes. McGarry was charged with possessing "moonshine" whiskey and wine.

Measures That Would Cure Most of the Troubles and Tendencies Which Distress and Alarm Us Today

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.

(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.

(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.

(4) To elect Federal Judges, including Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.

(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

Gen. Wood's Backers Hurt Him by Prodigal Use of Money

Senator Borah does not impugn the personal integrity or question the ability of Major-General Wood when he calls public attention in the Senate to the fact that the financial backing of the Wood candidacy has been overdone and that the lavish use of money to secure his nomination for the Presidency has become a grave public scandal.

Whether the vast sums of money expended to secure delegates have been raised chiefly by Mr. Procter, of the Procter & Gamble Syndicate, or by the Du Ponts, we do not know. But the method is the same as that pursued by the syndicate that spent $670,000 to elect Mr. Newberry United States Senator from Michigan, thus securing control of the United States Senate, or of the syndicate that spent $2,000,000 to elect John Purroy Mitchel Mayor of New York three years ago to secure control of the city government.

Information presented to Senator Borah shows that Major-General Wood's campaign for delegates in Ohio cost about $650,000, as compared with $90,000 spent by the supporters of Senator Harden, "favorite son" of the State.

This expenditure gave Major-General Wood nine of the State's forty-eight delegates.

This cost of $72,000 for each Wood delegate from Ohio, if applied in other States—and the Wood campaign has been conducted with extragavant expenditures in many other States—would mean that a bare majority of the Republican National Convention would cost $35,496,000.

It is not necessary to suppose for an instant that any such preposterous sum has been or will be spent. But it is undoubtedly true that Major-General Wood's candidacy has cost several millions of dollars, and that a much greater sum has been wasted than was ever before spent to secure a nomination for the Presidency by either party.

It must be plain to everyone that if Major-General Wood is now nominated, his backers have already raised great obstacles against his success, because he must cut loose from them after his nomination to convince the American people that he is not controlled by the financial syndicate whose excess of zeal has spent so much money in his behalf.

When a syndicate of millionaires thus sets out to buy the Presidency of the United States, its object, however estimable the candidate may be, is plutocratic and not patriotic.

The idea that many rich men have that if they want a thing they have only to go out and buy it; that if they are willing to pay for something there is no reason why they should not have it; that anything can be bought for money proves th ... oney is the root of all evil.

When control of elections is sought in this way, success poisons the source of all power in this country and the Government itself. If money succeeds, it then becomes the ruler and the Commonwealth is destroyed.

Other Nations Alive to Oil Problem; We Are Inactive

One of the direct effects of the war, becoming more and more apparent as the details of international conferences become public, is the realization that whoever has command of the oil supply in the next world war will control the most important single element in making war.

It is for this reason that at San Remo the control of lands producing coal and oil has been of the first consideration.

If, as it is reported, Great Britain has gained control of the oil fields of Baku and Batum in Russian Transcaucasia and is negotiating for practical ownership of the great Shell Transport & Trading Company with its petroleum interests, it may be taken for granted that England has, as usual, shown the best foresight.

According to the reports of the United States Geological Survey, the oil fields of this country, the richest in the world, have already become 40 per cent. exhausted, and a growing demand faces a diminishing supply.

With foreign governments adding to their oil resources, both by purchase and diplomacy, it becomes certain that the wants of the United States are in jeopardy.

Sir John Cadman, professor of mining in the University of Birmingham, speaking before the Royal Institution in London the other day, said:

One cannot overlook the fact that the United States are in a very strong position, but they are developing so fast that they are absorbing oil at a greater rate than ever.

That is the great danger. We are using faster than we are producing and we are producing faster than we are discovering, and the two conditions mean eventual famine.

There are two remedies which the Government should hasten to apply. One is to find a substitute for gasoline as a motor fuel. The other is to devise and apply some system of conservation which shall assure a dependable supply for governmental use.

The daily consumption of gasoline by motor vehicles is estimated at 12,000,000 gallons, with an annual increase of 25 per cent. To relieve the oil production of this demand by the substitution of some other fuel would go far toward solving a very important problem.

Captain Paul Foley, director of operations for the United States Shipping Board, stated the matter concretely when he said the other day:

Sixty-five per cent. of the present supply of oil is drawn from the United States, to which citizens of other countries have access on equal terms with us.

Of the future visible production, from 90 to 97 per cent. is under control of Great Britain, and available to British nationals only.

The United States government must secure for American nationals in British producing fields the same privilege of equal opportunity which it now extends to British nationals in American producing fields. Failing to secure this, it must take whatever legislative action may be necessary to protect its own resources.

Unless we are ready to accord to other countries a distinct advantage in a dependable fuel supply, we should take immediate steps to protect what we have and add to it as much as we are able.

More Truth Than Poetry

A Shattered Idol

By S. E. KISER

I REMEMBER when Sniggs was the life of the party,
His manner was easy and gay;
The clapping was loud and the laughter was hearty
When Sniggs had a part in the play.
He was always the centre, it seemed, of attention,
He never missed making a hit;
But his manner at present is hardly more pleasant
Than that of a cat in a fit.

THERE were people who used, when he rose at a table,
To roar before ever he spoke;
With a cocktail before him, he always was able
To start with a capital joke.
His stories were funny, his laughter was catching,
He was popular, petted and praised;
But something's the matter, his shots seem to scatter,
He talks as a man who is dazed.

I REMEMBER when people all over the city
Were saying that Sniggs was a scream;
He was jovial, quick on the trigger and witty,
But that was when Sniggs was agleam—
"Lit up," as it used to be called by good fellows,
In the days of the julep and fizz;
Now Sniggs is neglected, his look is dejected,
Gloom settles wherever he is.

THE people who thought him the funniest ever
Sit back and look bored when he speaks;
The nuts that he cracks, for some reason, are never
The cause of uproarious shrieks.
Perhaps Sniggs, who once was the life of the party,
Is not as well primed as before,
Or has wit ceased to glisten since people who listen
Go under the tables no more?

MISS FANNY Hurst.
SOMEWHERE-IN-NEW YORK.
MY DEAR Fanny.
IT'S SOME days now.
SINCE YOU threw your bomb.
ABOUT MARRIED life.
AND THE columnists.
AND THE paragraphers.
HAVE TURNED their attention.
TO OTHER things.
AS THEY properly should.
AND SO far as I know.
I'M THE only one.
WHO HAS said no word.
OF WHAT you wrote.
AND I wouldn't now.
IF IT hadn't been.
THAT I was impressed.
WITH WHAT you said.
AND I said to myself.
FOR TWENTY-THREE years.
YOU'VE BEEN sitting down.
AT YOUR morning meal.
AND YOU'VE looked across.
WHERE THE centrepiece is.
AND JUST beyond.
SHE'S BEEN sitting there.
IN GRIEF and joy.
AND RAIN and shine.
AND AT dinner time.
THROUGH ALL those years.
ON EVERY day.
SHE HAS been there.
AND HOW do you know.
I SAID to myself.
BUT IT might be.
THAT THE both of you.
WOULD BE happier.
IF ONE was away.
FOR A little while.
AND A week ago.
A LETTER came.
AND IT asked her to go.
FOR A couple of days.
TO THE home of a friend.
AND WE spoke of it.
AND I thought of you.
AND OF what you said.
AND ANYWAY, Fanny.
SHE WENT away,
AND WHETHER it was.
THAT THE coffee was bad.
OR MY eggs weren't done.
AS THEY should have been done.
OR THE toast wasn't buttered.
OR I lost my shirts.
OR WHETHER it was.
THAT THERE disappeared.
WHEN SHE went away.
SOME INTANGIBLE thing.
THAT SEEMS always near,
WHEN SHE is near.
AND THAT guards the days.
AND GUARDS the nights.
AGAINST LONESOMENESS.
WHICHEVER IT was.
OF ALL these things.
I'M SURE I don't know.
BUT WHATEVER it was.
I'M WRITING to say.
THAT YOUR scheme doesn't work.
AND OVER my shoulder.
MY WIFE says to tell you.
YOU'RE MISSING a lot.

I THANK you.

TRAVESTY OF JUSTICE ON ARMENIAN QUESTION

By Dr. H. S. Jelalian

THE eminent statesman and publicist, Lord James Bryce, insists that the expulsion of the Turk from Europe is long overdue, and that he ought to be driven where he is least dangerous to innocent Christian races, who have so long been suffering under the yoke of his tyranny. That the presence of the Turk in Europe has been an unmitigated curse, that the Turk as a governing agency has proved himself to be a total failure, that during his long reign of over five centuries, both in Adrianople and Constantinople, he has utterly failed to initiate a single measure for the amelioration of the bitter condition of the people are facts of history not to be gainsaid by any fair-minded man, no matter where his sympathies were in the world conflagration. This is authentic history. How shall we account for such an anachronism in the family of nations?

England's Blunder

Intensely pro-ally as I was during the war, my loyalty to the truth compels me to say that England was primarily responsible for the presence of the Turk on the Bosphorus. The Crimean war of 1854 was a colossal blunder which was waged for Turkey and against Russia. Mr. Gladstone himself deplored the fact, and Lord Salisbury naively declared: "We backed the wrong horse."

Nothing in human history was more revolutionary than the British attitude toward Russia during the war. There is, however, a fundamental difference between the English and German influences in Turkey. The English influence was political and economic, while the German influence turned out to be military, which brutalized the natural fighting instincts of the Turk.

Poland of the East

But now things have come to another pass. During the war the allies, under the impelling force of President Wilson's declarations, pretended to believe in the principle of self-determination for small nations, who would be restored to their national heritages. Armenians thereupon unanimously decided to have America be the mandatory over the integral Armenia, from the Caucasus down to the Mediterranean. But this did not suit the country in accordance with the dictates of their own imperial interests. If this thing is sanctioned by a treaty between Turkey and the allied powers, Armenia will be the Poland of the East, divided into Russian Armenia under the shadow of Mount Ararat, middle Armenia under England and into Cilicia under France.

What a travesty of justice! Oh! for an hour of Daniel Webster in the Senate of the United States. Turkey in Constantinople will be a stench in the nostrils of mankind. But what shall we think of France in Cilicia, where she has no business to be?

Letters to the Editor

Carmen's Pay

Editor Boston American:

In regard to the increase of wages for the carmen of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, I would like to say that if it is possible for a family of five to live, as stated in one of the morning papers, on $1,784 a year, where do the men get $1,784 a year on $33 a week? Besides, it is not possible for a family of five to live on $1,784 a year with the present high cost of food, clothing and rents. I am one of a family of five, and if my mother and I did not work to help feed us we would have to live on bread and tea three meals a day, seven days a week, and I was obliged to give up my schooling to go to work.

May Consider Hoover British

Editor Boston American:

We hear much about College "Hoover" Clubs. Is it strange that a citizen of Nova Scotia should head Technology's delegation to the College Hoover Convention? Why should outsiders be actively interested in our politics?

Perhaps by his long residence in British colonies Hoover may be considered as a fellow Britisher?

Grand Parade Coming
Most Beautiful Dolores
The Greatest Miracle
Time to Stop Mourning

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

President Wilson yesterday saw the circus parade from the east portico of the White House.

A more interesting circus parade is coming next Fall if the Democratic party runs a national campaign based on subjection of this country to the League of Nations. The Democratic candidate will be seen trying to ride the trick mule.

There is no doubt about President Wilson's whole-hearted enthusiasm when he says that the Democratic party must at once proclaim itself "advocate of everything that the United States can do in the service of humanity." It is a beautiful sentiment, two thousand years old. It was originally put in the following words:

"Sell all that thou hast and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."—St. Luke xviii., 23.

A number of nations call themselves Christian, but not any of them as yet have taken all they had and given to the poor, individually or collectively.

It will be some time before the United States takes all it has and gives it to Europe.

This country took many billions and handed them to the profiteers. The country requires time to recover from that burst of generosity before starting out to do everything that the United States can do in the service of humanity."

Once post up in Europe the sign "If there is anything you want that you don't see, ask for it," and there soon wouldn't be much left.

"Dolores," dancer, is declared by Mr. Ziegfeld, father of "Follies," to be "the most beautiful girl in the world."

Be that as it may, Dolores, to improve her dancing, has had one small toe cut off, and thinks she may let the other small one go.

Does the number of toes worn by Mr. Ziegfeld's most beautiful girl mean nothing to humanity? It means much.

You, like Dolores, and all other living creatures, are undergoing gradual transformation.

The day may come when you will get along with two toes on each foot. The horse once had five, he is better off now with one.

A good dentist will say you would probably be better off with your four wisdom teeth out. Recently human beings have carried thirty-two teeth as a full set. Previously they had more. Soon we shall cut the number to twenty-eight.

While our foreheads have got bigger, our jaws have grown smaller, and now a full set of teeth are too many for the average mouth.

If, next to the Public Library, you should put a tent with "Jo Jo, the Dog Faced Boy," tattooed man, Barnum's "What is It," and a bearded fat lady on free exhibition, how many would go into the library and how many into the tent?

The average church is not overwell attended, although clergymen deal earnestly with subjects that that should interest all citizens. When Trinity Church, biggest, richest Episcopal church in America, invites Mr. Hickson, the "English healer," to talk, it is packed, a thousand have to stand, and "one young man fainted."

Mr. Hickson believes that he cures the sick. There is no doubt that he gathers them together and gives them a chance to infect each other. He said, "Christ gave to His Church the wonderful power of healing, and that healing has ceased, because faith died."

Since the days of miraculous healing, when the leper was made clean, men have been taught to think and cure themselves. Incidentally they have practically wiped out leprosy. They can cure and entirely eliminate other diseases. That is better than gathering together in one church a few of the sick, to deceive them with false hopes or stimulate them with hysterical excitement. The greatest of all miracles is science, and it's real.

The people don't want and won't have the sentimental League of Nations, therefore government should turn its attention for a while to the welfare of the people of the United States.

According to Hoover, who knows, this country last year "could have bought the Cuban sugar crop at six and one-half cents a pound." If that had been done, you would be getting your sugar now for twelve cents.

It may not be as important to give twelve-cent sugar to the American family as it would be to give flannel waistcoats to the inhabitants of Mesopotamia or peace of mind to the hill dwellers in Armenia.
